LOOK FOR BIG CLEW TODAY

You Missed Several Chances to Find Money Yesterday, Gentle Treasure Hunter.

By "The Money Man."

While readers of the money mystery story, "Hidden—Not Lost," did pretty well in finding and following clews in yesterday's instalment, I am able to give them a straight tip that there is something better in store for them to-day.

Some clever reader of this story is going to get something to-day that will make him or her feel good for months and months. This is a better tip than you can get on State street—here you have every opportunity to win and you CAN'T LOSE.

Thousands of people will be after the clews in to-day's Key Editions—the one issued shortly before 4 o'clock and the later editions—and I advise those who want to win something for which men have fought and bled and died to get the first paper possible that contains the $5,000 treasure story.

I AM NOT AT LIBERTY TO TELL MORE ABOUT WHAT CLEWS WILL BE CONCEALED IN TO-DAY'S INSTALMENT OF THE STORY, BUT IF YOU MISS IT YOU WILL BE VERY, VERY SORRY LATER.

You can tell the issues of the paper containing the treasure story by the key in the upper right-hand corner of the first page. The first of these editions will be on sale simultaneously about 4 o'clock at the South station, the BOSTON AMERICAN office, No. 80 Summer street; North station, Haymarket square, corner Boylston and Washington streets, Park street subway station, Scollay square and Postoffice square.

Keep in mind that there is ALWAYS the golden hope of getting the $1,000 WHICH HAS BEEN PLACED IN A DEPOSIT VAULT OF THE OLD COLONY TRUST COMPANY, until this handsome award is made.

Also remember that only a very small part of the $5,000 in treasure has been found and that SOMEBODY IS GOING TO GET SOMETHING—$5, $10, $1,000 in gold or a building lot, motor cycle, player piano, gold watch—EVERY DAY.

The first successful searcher yesterday was William J. Thomsen of Brookline. He found $10 in gold at the "oldest theatre in Boston." He knew that was the Howard and went after it fast. Paul Bradford of Roxbury discovered another gold piece, $5 this time, at Scollay square, and J. W. Winters of East Boston got another $5 under the "tall monument with a woman on top." That is the Soldiers' Monument. There were other clews in yesterday's story which nobody has yet traced.

P. S.—Don't forget my private tip about ONE OF THE CLEWS in to-day's part of the story.

SHERMAN FACING OPERATION, VERY ILL IN HOSPITAL

Vice-Presidential Candidate in Serious Condition, but Hope Is Entertained He May Pass Crisis To-day.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—James Schoolcraft Sherman, Republican nominee for the vice presidency, stricken with the recurrence of an old internal complaint, lies critically ill in the Lakeside Hospital, where he was rushed early to-day, ready to go under the knife.

Former Governor Herrick, at whose home Sherman was stopping, when stricken, gave out the following statement at noon:

"We hope the condition of Mr. Sherman is not critical. He has had such attacks before and has recovered. He is being removed to the hospital so that if an operation is necessary he will be in the best place for it.

"At 9 a. m. Mr. Sherman's temperature was 102. Dr. E. Carter of Cleveland is in charge. He conferred by long-distance telephone with Dr. Finney, a specialist in Baltimore, who has treated Mr. Sherman before."

FAMILY RUSHES TO HIM.

That the worst fears are entertained for Mr. Sherman's condition are indicated by the summoning from Utica of Mrs. Sherman and her sons. Half an hour after he had been taken to the hospital here word came that they had started on a fast train.

Dr. R. P. Allen, the physician in charge of the case, who has diagnosed the case as gall stones, is using every effort to avoid an operation; but he admits that the situation is somewhat alarming. When Mr. Sherman was here two months ago at Washington and was confined at the Garfield Hospital, Dr. John Van Rensselaer of that city diagnosed his affliction as catarrh of the gall duct, and advised an operation. Mr. Sherman recovered, however, temporarily without resort to the knife.

Dr. Finney of Baltimore, who attended Mr. Sherman during an attack of the same trouble in Washington last year, has been summoned by special train.

STRICKEN ON TRAIN.

Mr. Sherman's present condition is ascribed to his exertions on the trip to Cincinnati and to this city. The heat in Chicago and in Cincinnati is supposed to have had a part in bringing on the attack, which came upon Mr. Sherman en route to Cleveland Saturday night. When he arrived in Governor Herrick's home he went immediately to his rooms and a physician was called at once.

He revived later, but at 4:30 a. m. today suffered a severe attack and was hurried at once to the hospital.

Mr. Sherman's illness of course ends all plans for his reception home to Utica, after his return to Illinois on the train in this city he had planned to charter a special train, which was to have left Cleveland early to-day and reach Utica at 9:45 o'clock this evening. Elaborate preparations had been made for receiving him upon his arrival. Speeches were to have been delivered by the Sherman residence by Mayor Wheeler, Timothy L. Woodruff, John R. Kernan, Charles W. Searle and others.

To make things as easy as possible for the nominee, it was planned that there should be no speech in reply and no hand shaking.

MELLEN MUST SELL STREET ROADS IN YEAR

COURT IN DECREE TO-DAY ORDERS THE NEW HAVEN TO DISGORGE BY JULY 1, 1909.

Judge Rugg in the Supreme Court to-day, delivered the final crushing blow to the New Haven road when he handed down a decree in the merger case, restraining and enjoining the road, through its officers or agents, from subscribing or holding or exercising any influence in the stock of the various street railway companies of Central Massachusetts and further ordering the road to disgorge its illegal holdings by July 1 of next year.

The court also denied the motion made some weeks ago by the New Haven that they be allowed to show that the company had parted with its ownings in all but the Worcester & Webster, and the Webster & Dudley street railways.

The victory is the greatest scored against any railroad monopoly in the history of New England.

The decree handed down by the court in the merger case is as follows:

"It is ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows.

"The defendant is, and its officers, directors, attorneys, agents and employes respectively and collectively are hereby enjoined and restrained,

"From subscribing for or taking directly or indirectly, the capital stock of the Worcester & Southbridge Street Railway Co., the Worcester & Blackstone Valley Street Railway Co., the Worcester & Webster Street Railway Co., the Webster & Dudley Street Railway Company, the Berkshire Street Railway Company and the Springfield Street Railway Company, or either of them, all being street railway corporations incorporated under, and by virtue of the laws of this Commonwealth, and mentioned in the information.

"2—From assuming or exercising the franchise or privilege of subscribing for, or taking directly or indirectly the stock of said street railway corporations or either of them.

"3—From holding directly or indirectly the stock of said street railway corporations, or either of them after the first day of July in the year 1909.

Must Sell By July 1.

"4—From assuming or exercising the franchise or privilege of holding directly or indirectly the stock of said street railway corporations or either of them after the first day of July, 1909.

"Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall affect existing leases executed in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 203 of the act of the year 1901 of the Commonwealth.

"And it is further ordered that this decree be entered as of the eighth day of May, 1908.

"And it is further ordered that the Attorney General recover his costs taxed at $2,585.40, and there be execution therefor."

Reception to Thomas L. Hisgen at the Quincy House this evening.

The leader of the Massachusetts Independence Party will be pleased to greet you.

Call around and have a 'shake-hands' with him.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE BASEBALL GROUNDS, Boston, June 23.—After a long trip in the West the Red Sox returned to home grounds and had their first game with Washingtons this afternoon. There will be games on these grounds for four days, and then the Detroits and Sox will make a trip to New York and Philadelphia, returning here on July 7 to meet the second invasion of the Western clubs.

The Red Sox were in fine shape to meet the enemy, and all hands felt confident of taking at majority of the four games scheduled with the Washingtons, who are somewhat battered up at present. The Western trip of Cantillon's men was not nearly so successful as that of the White Sox. In fact, they were hammered from pillar to post.

Jesse Tannehill looked strange in a Washington uniform. He said his arm was getting better, and he expected to soon be back in regular turn in the box.

A large crowd welcomed the Red Sox, and the players were cheered when they came on the field from the alleyway that leads from their clubhouse. There was a great display of bunting in young Gardner, which adorned the grandstand, and everybody played sure a fine game at shortstop in Rockhurst yesterday. He has been with the Beans ever since they arrived in Boston, and the exhibition game yesterday was the first opportunity he had of showing his worth. George Huff, who recently succeeded the young fellow to Manager McGuire, was very proud of his protege.

YALE FIELD, New Haven, June 23.—Under a sweltering sun more than 12,000 people sat and cheered the two Red and blue nine in their second game of their annual series to-day.

The match was the feature of the day in Yale's commencement program and the classes, back for reunion, skipped around the field in their motley array of gay costumes. The class of 1905 came on as bargaris with dark lanterns. The graduates of 1902 paraded as Spanish cavaliers and other classes danced around the diamond as Irish spalpeens, monks, Swiss guides and sailors. There were thirty-five bands in the parade to practice the day was deafening. Secretary W. H. Taft and Mrs. Taft came out to the sport in an automobile. Mr. Taft left the auto and took a seat in the front row of the pavilion. The demonstration he received was tremendous. The Yale nine were on the field at 2:30 and took their practice as the reunion classes clustered around the field. The double umpire system was tried. Adams and Smith of Philadelphia, of the National League reserve staff, officiating. Smith announced before the game began that Merry Widow hats must be removed or the police would interfere, and there was a general worry to get rid of head gears in the stands.

Harvard won the first game from Yale here Saturday by the score of 5 to 3, and if Yale wins to-day and the series a third game will be played at American League Park, New York, next Saturday.

"TIN PLATE KING" LEEDS DIES IN PARIS

Retired from Rock Island Presidency Ten Years Ago After a Stroke.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, June 23.—William B. Leeds, former president of the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, died to-day in Paris.

The news reached New York through private cable dispatches sent to Wall street. It was announced in the financial district that the affairs of the late banker "crashed" some time ago and that in consequence none of the securities which he held would be liquidated.

He retired ten years ago from the Rock Island and all other corporations with which he was connected, following a stroke of paralysis. On the advice of his physicians he went to France, where it was said his condition continued to grow worse until the end. Leeds, in addition to his large railroad interests, was known as the "Tin Plate King."

He was worth several millions of dollars. The first Mrs. Leeds was divorced five years ago and received $1,000,000 in cash from her husband. Three days after the court had freed him Leeds married the beautiful Mrs. Nannie Stewart Worthington of Cleveland.

The two women engaged in a social war at Palm Beach several months later, and both attracted attention through the dazzling array of jewels and elaborate gowns displayed.

Mr. Leeds was a native of Richmond, Ind., and laid the foundation of his millions in the tin plate industry with Daniel G. Reid. It was with capital earned in the tin-plate merger that the two men began the railroad ventures which added to their great fortunes.

Mrs. Leeds recently was brought into notice by litigation over the famous "Leeds necklace." This had been purchased for $300,000 from a jeweler in Paris, who agreed to deliver it in New York. The pearls were smuggled into the country to escape heavy duty on jewelry, and entered as unset gems.

The courts ruled against their admission as such, however, and the Leeds family was compelled to pay additional duty of 40 per cent.

SAVED PEANUTS, BUT IS FINED IN COURT

A near-pint measure at the peanut stand of Joseph Capcello of Pleasant street, Malden, cost Joseph just $20 in the Malden Court this morning. Joseph, the police declared, saved over a dozen peanuts out of every pint he sold. He was charged with selling by short measure, and Judge Bruce imposed the fine.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, June 23.—The Doves and Giants faced a hard task when they lined up at 2 o'clock this afternoon to start the first of three doubleheaders in succession. The rainy weather that prevailed on the last trip of the Doves here made this doubling-up process necessary, although the New York management could have scheduled one of the games for another date. However, McGraw figures the Doves are weakened just now with Bowerman out of the game, and as his team is going well at present he is anxious to make hay while the sun shines. It would be a good joke on the little manager if the visitors edged up on the floor with the locals.

The managers will have to be careful with their box artists for the next few days. They will not dare to make many changes in the batting department during a game, as there are not pitchers enough to last. Boston brought over Exception, Flaherty, Pitcher, Lindaman, "Hi" Young, and Beaton, while McGarrity joined the team here.

There was a good-sized crowd on hand when the "jump" told the teams to get busy for the first game this afternoon.

THE GAME.

FIRST INNING.

Doyle dug up Beaumont's roller and passed it to Tenney in plenty of time. Browne went down and out on a similar play. Doyle to Tenney. McGinnis was given quite a hand. He refused to dope one of McGinnity's linobeats and sidled to first. Bridwell got Kelley's wicked scoop and passed to Doyle, forcing out McGinnis at second. NO RUNS.

Dowlin failed to locate the pan with his spitter and Tenney strolled to first. Doyle made a very neat sacrifice and Merkle threw to Ritchey, the latter covering the initial bag. Tenney went to second on the play. Dahlen chucked Seymour's stab to Hamilton, smothering Tenney at third. Seymour was dead easy stealing, Smith to Dahlen. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Dahlen hit hard, but right to Devlin and died at Tenney's corner. After Tenney had muffed his easy foul, Hamilton drew a pass to bag No. 1 on four wide ones. Tenney made a pretty pick up of Bridwell's low throw of Ritchey's slow chuck. Smith's hot shot took a bad bound to Devlin, and he was safe, although Afterthought made a great play. Devlin made the smoothest kind of a catch of Dorner's low liner drive over his inches from the turf. NO RUNS.

Dowlin was non-suited, and took the easy road to first. Smith made a great catch of Devlin's fair bunt. By while stretched out at full length on the carpet. Ritchey tossed Shannon's skim to Dahlen, forcing out Dowlin at second. Shannon was touched off on his way to second, and Dahlen to Dahlen back to McGann. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Beaumont was easy for Doyle and Tenney again. Browne beat out a slow one to Doyle, the latter making a quick play, but Devlin struck Mediana's skim to Dahlen, forcing out Dowlin at second. Shannon was touched off on his way to second, and Dahlen to Dahlen back to McGann. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Beaumont was easy for Doyle and Tenney again. Browne beat out a slow one to Doyle, the latter making a quick play, but Devlin struck Mediana's skim to Dahlen, forcing out Dowlin at second. Shannon was touched off on his way to second, and Dahlen to Dahlen back to McGann. NO RUNS.

Bresnahan doubled to right. Smith threw Bridwell's next bunt to McGann, but Bird was a bit leewaygood. In getting down the line, Bresnahan went to third and scored on McGinnity's fly to Browne. Hamilton made a pretty assist to McGann of Tenney's bunt. ONE RUN.

FOURTH INNING.

Doyle and Tenney retired Hamilton with ease and dispatch. Doyle continued to be the storm center of the Bostons' attack and this time made a peachy clutch of Ritchey's liner. Bridwell was very classy with his play to Tenney of Smith's stab. NO RUNS.

Doyle singled to centre. Seymour sacrificed to McGann unassisted, but Doyle pushed to the midway. Dowlin looked dangerous again to Dorner and was passed. Devlin strolled, filling the bases. Dorner failed to get 'em over for Shannon, and Doyle was forced to tally. A wild pitch enabled Dowlin to score and Devlin and Shannon advanced a peg also. Bresnahan came up with a slashing single, scoring Devlin and Shannon. Bridwell singled to right and drew a throw from Browne to the infield and scooted to second. Mediana's fly was out and out. Ritchey to McGann, Dahlen and under Tenney's tap. FOUR RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Seymour made another great catch of Dorner's line drive. McGinnity knocked down Beaumont's liner and got it to Tenney in time. Browne beat out another slow one to Doyle. McGann popped up a foul for Tenney. NO RUNS.

Devlin singled, Seymour died at first to Mediana. Dahlen threw Dowlin's hit to Hamilton to beat of Doyle, but Hamilton was slow and Larry slid in safe. Browne got Devlin's third and threw to McGann, who let up Dowlin who was stealing. NO RUNS.

RICH CLEW TO-DAY IN 'HIDDEN—NOT LOST' ON PAGE 3

WINNERS TELL HOW GOLD WAS FOUND MONDAY

Searchers in "Hidden—Not Lost" Mystery Followed Tips and Gained Rewards.

HUNDREDS JOIN IN HUNT

The great "Hidden—Not Lost" money hunt began yesterday and is on to-day with increased intensity. The quiet tip put in circulation by "The Money Man," who wrote the mystery story, that there would be something big doing to-day, put the gold searchers on the hunt early.

Hundreds of people gathered at the various points in the city yesterday, where as almost simultaneous delivery of the first Key Edition is made at 4 o'clock, and grabbed up the paper with avidity. They rapidly read the instalment of the story and then were off for the hidden treasure.

From then until nightfall the search was kept up, and a number of those who participated in the contest went to bed happy.

Finds $10 at Howard Theatre.

The first person to strike it rich was William J. Thompson of No. 2564 Harvard street, Brookline. He found $10 in gold. This is his story in brief:

"When I looked through the story I saw something about the oldest theatre in Boston, and struck me at once that the Howard would be a good place for me. I got there as soon as possible.

"I found the money behind one of the coming and re-opening notices. I am going to read the story regularly and am a candidate for the $1,000 in the deposit vaults in the first time I ever was able to win out in a contest of this kind. The money comes mighty handy in these hard times."

Paul Bradford of No. 86 Eustis street, Roxbury, smilingly had this to say:

Found Clew in Scollay Square.

"I got $5 of that buried treasure and I am going to get more. I know that there is no humbug about this thing for I've got the money. I bought an edition of the AMERICAN shortly before 4 o'clock and I noticed a line about Scollay square. I hurried to that spot.

"When I got there I saw that a crowd was waiting for a car, and I mingled with the crowd. Pretty soon there was a hubbub of excitement, and I knew that the search was on in earnest. I kept cool and made a careful inspection of the station building. Protruding from behind one of the pipes I saw something—it was the $5."

J. W. Winters, of No. 98 Lexington street, East Boston, was one of the successful clew finders and followers. Mr Winters said:

"This $5 in gold looks good to me. I got it after I had almost given up the search. First I went to Temple Place and did not find anything. Then I went to the Soldiers' Monument in the Common.

Second Hunt Successful.

"I looked about carefully, but saw nothing that looked like treasure of any kind I started away, and then had a hunch that I was leaving something behind that belonged to me. I went back. Tucked under one of the seats was a small envelope bearing a picture of a key and the words, 'Hidden—Not Lost.' Valuable. Look inside.' I looked inside and got the $5."

Walter Collins of No. 24 Chestnut street followed the "Brimstone Corner" way successfully. He got $5.

Look for big clew to-day!

HOUSE LOTS OF HIGH VALUE OFFERED TO GOLD SEARCHERS

Among the articles of value, besides the capital award of $1,000 in gold and other sums of cash to be won by the clever readers of "Hidden—Not Lost," are three fine house lots. "The Investigator," of the AMERICAN, who is authority on real estate, has written something about these lots after looking them over. His story follows:

By "The Investigator."

The lot at Arlington is located on Church Hill, five minutes away from the electrics and steam cars. It is in a growing section of the town and is a front lot on one of the principal streets, commanding a view of the surrounding country. When these lots were first offered for sale they were eagerly sought after and were all sold in a week.

This present lot is one of the best and contains five thousand feet. It is easily worth $500.

The lot at Medford is on Central avenue, Glenwood Lawn. Property here is rapidly developing on account of the new electric line, which brings this locality within seven minutes of Sullivan square.

This present lot is valued at $750, which price it would command to-day if it were offered for sale. Many people have already obtained homes in this most desirable section north of Boston, and no better investment in real estate is known than what is here offered, where this present lot is situated.

Wellington Hill is one of the most attractive sections along the Blue Hill boulevard. The lot to be given away is on high ground, where there is a commanding view of the neighboring country. It is the second highest locality in Boston.

There are already over thirty-five houses built on this property. It is a fast developing residential section, and a lot here means an ideal spot for a home. The lot is worth $600.

"HIDDEN—NOT LOST" READERS' QUERIES ARE ANSWERED

Question—When will the clew to the $1,000 in gold be printed in the story? Can a girl get it? ALICE.

Answer—You will have to read the story to find out. The $1,000 clew may come out at any time. Yes, a girl has the same chance as any one else.

Question—How soon should I try to solve the mystery of Madame Alvarez and suggest the best ending of the story? MRS. A. L. W.

Answer—Just as soon as you think you can do it. The FIRST BEST get the $500 Miller player piano.

Question—Why can't a man elucidate the mystery of the "Hidden—Not Lost" heroine, tell you the best ending for the story and get the piano? MUSICIAN.

Answer—The $850 player piano and two gold watches are exclusively for women competitors because they cannot leave home as easily to follow the clews for the other treasure as men.

Question—How long will the story run? CHARLES WILSON, Arlington.

Answer—The story will continue until readers have found all of the buried treasure. How long that will be cannot be told at this time.

How to Get First Clews to the Buried Treasure

Promptness in getting the first edition of the BOSTON AMERICAN that contains the daily instalment of "Hidden—Not Lost" may mean good fortune for those who wish to search for the clews and the $5,000 buried treasure.

The story will appear in the edition of the AMERICAN which has a key in the upper right-hand corner, and in all of the editions thereafter. The first of these editions is issued shortly before 4 p. m., and will be on sale practically simultaneously by 4 o'clock at the following points:

South Station.

DENIES STORY OF RUNAWAY MARRIAGE

Percy Solbrau, the crack first baseman of the Fall River baseball team, is busy to-day denying a report which was sent out from New Bedford, and which received newspaper publication, that he eloped last Tuesday with Miss Jeanie Diamond, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. Diamond, of New Bedford. Solbrau is at a loss to account for the story. He heard that it came from Miss Diamond, but the young lady in the case indignantly denied knowing anything about it. Solbrau said to-day:

"I certainly did not marry Miss Diamond or any other girl. I just barely know her, having met her at a dance one night. I don't see where the story comes from."

To make the situation all the more aggravating for Solbrau, he is engaged to be married to a pretty Wisconsin girl. Naturally he wants to be set right in this elopement yarn.

12-INCH GUN PRACTICE FOR SOLDIER LADS

Members of the Ninth Regiment and the Coast Artillery practiced to-day in shooting big twelve-inch guns at Forts Heath and Banks, Winthrop, and sent the big projectiles roaring and screeching at floating targets in Broad Sound. The men behind the guns showed a great deal of skill for volunteer soldiers in time of peace. Colonel Duncan was highly pleased with the work of his boys. To-morrow the "real game" is usually begins. The first practice will be in skirmish work. The war game will last all the week. There will be an attempt to land forces from the boats which will represent ships of a foreign foe, and the Ninth and Coast Artillery will try to block the invasion.

SHAH'S FORCES AND ASSEMBLY GUARD BATTLE

TEHERAN, June 23.—The expected clash between the forces of the Shah and of the Assembly occurred to-day. Early in the day a force of Cossacks surrounded the Parliament buildings and the mosque adjoining and demanded that the Assembly at once give up certain persons whose arrest had been ordered. The Assembly refused to comply with the demands, and their guards opened fire, killing a number of the Cossacks. Reinforcements and artillery entered the city later in the morning, and the firing on both sides continued.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters.

Walter Sinclair, a young Cleveland business man stopping at Hotel Somerset, Boston, receives a note which he finds at the door of his room. The note is unsigned. When opened it is found to contain a card which bears an elaborate coat of arms, a Latin inscription, and these letters, traced in ink in a feminine hand: "N. E. or M."

The maid explains that Madame, whose card he read, wants to see him at once in Room 707 of the same hotel. In vain Sinclair protested that there must be some mistake—that the card was meant for some other person, but the maid persisted, and finally Sinclair went to the room indicated, knocked and was told to enter in a sweet, feminine voice.

The speaker was Madame Alvarez, very beautiful, who was amazed when she learned that Sinclair was not an engineer from Le Lesseps, whom Sinclair finally promised to help her win in a great game in which she was engaged.

Sinclair left the woman to get a fast motor car and a daring chauffeur. He met the latter at Will Dalton. Sinclair and Dalton met the woman at the end of a bridge, took her into the car and then began a great chase to escape from her pursuers. The following morning, a cab, driven by a woman, met the party.

They finally went to a hotel to dine. When Sinclair, who had entered to see if a safe, suitable room was onable, returned to the street, he found that the car and its chauffeur had disappeared. Sinclair was dumbfounded and regretted that he had been led into the strange crisis of adventures.

CHAPTER IV.

SINCLAIR was completely dazed by this latest surprise. He had to desire to abandon the task he had undertaken. In fact he was willing to risk his life if necessary to serve this fascinating woman—the path of whose life had so strangely crossed his. But what to do? that was the question. How could he serve her when she dropped out of sight in this manner without a word of warning?

He feared to leave the vicinity of the hotel lest she return in his absence. He dared not ask anybody in which direction the automobile had gone for fear of spoiling her plans. With no idea of where to find her he could not bear the thought of standing idly there when she might be in pressing need of his help. And yet what could he do?

In need of something to steady his shaking nerves, he was crossing the street to buy a cigar when an ambulance dashed round the corner. So occupied was he with his thoughts that he did not hear the warning gong, and it was only by a quick leap to one side that he saved himself from being knocked down by the galloping horse.

A crowd of the curious hurried along in the wake of the clattering wagon. "A woman has been shot," yelled one to another as they passed Sinclair.

For a fleeting instant the words made no impression on Sinclair's brain, already half benumbed by the strain of events of the night's events. When they did penetrate his consciousness they had the force that hurt and so his every nerve tingled. He grew sick at the heart with a dread which was worse than the indecision of a moment before.

Madame Alvarez was dead. He felt a premonition that this was so. Some one of the enemies who were pursuing her so relentlessly had killed her, or, too proud to endure the failure which she had met in her capture meant, she had died by her own hand.

As he ran down toward the corner where the ambulance was stopping he groaned with painful earnestness her ominous words. "If I am caught," she had said as she drew her revolver from her muff, "my escape lies here."

It maddened him to think that after all he had been willing to do for her after the night should have ended in tragedy without his having been able to render the best help.

"She Is Dead!"

With effort he pressed his way through the crowd which, despite the mounting clubs of half a dozen policemen, surged close about the scene of the shooting. He could see in a pool of blood on the pavement the black robed form of a woman. To add to the strain of his suspense he could not see her face.

"She is dead," said some one at his elbow, "and she was a beauty, too." Sinclair's heart sank lower and lower, and summoning all his courage, he redoubled his efforts to get near enough to see her face.

Now they were lifting her body into the ambulance. The harsh rays of an arc light fell full on her ghastly white features. Her face was regular, and not without a simple beauty, but it was not the face of Madame Alvarez. With a sigh of relief Sinclair turned away. His worst fears had not been realized. Madame Alvarez was not dead, but the problem of finding her alive was as puzzling as before.

Now that the bleeding heap of human clay had been removed from view, the morbid crowd was slowly melting away. Like one in a trance Sinclair threaded his way through the chattering groups.

Suddenly his path was blocked by a small boy. He turned aside to avoid running him down. But the boy dodged too in the same direction.

"Here, here, Mister," he shouted, upturning a grimy face, "this is for you. And the lady who sent it is waiting for you over there."

With a wave of his hand in the direction from which Sinclair had come the boy was off before he could say a word. In astonishment Sinclair looked down at what had been thrust into his hand. It was crumpled broken and soiled but it had once been a white rose.

Slowly he retraced his steps. Had his first presentiment been partly correct and was there after all some connection between Madame Alvarez and this soiled of the streets? It did not seem possible and yet of all that had happened since the little French maid had appeared at his door nothing would have seemed without in the bounds of possibility 24 hours before. It was all like some grotesque dream in which he knew he was the only reality—and he was beginning to feel not very sure of himself.

The White Rose!

The white rose was the symbol which Madame Alvarez had mentioned when she made her first appointment with him. Then this must surely be a message from her. But if she were near at hand, why should it be necessary for her to communicate with him in this way when she must have had to point him out to the boy?

Sinclair walked back after block about the city. At one time he passed a spot from which cars start. He saw a mysterious man peering about and into doorways and overheard him mutter:

"I think this is the place. I am sure it is about here. I need $100, and I need it."

Sinclair began to grow disgusted with all this mystery which deepened every minute and apparently to no purpose, or, at least, to none that was good. He hesitated, then crushed the rose in his hand and with a gesture of impotence flung it as far from him as he could. The next minute he regretted what he had done and instead of turning back he continued in the direction the boy had indicated.

The other side of the square across which he had come was almost deserted. Only a policeman leaned lazily against a lamp post. There was not a woman to be seen.

He turned to his left and walked slowly along the street. Once—twice—he thought he heard some one call his name. He paused until the rumble of a passing train should have ceased to make sure that his eager ears had not deceived him. Again the call came, this time very softly:

"Mr. Sinclair, one minute please."

It was a woman's voice, but it was not the voice of Madame Alvarez nor of her maid. Of that Sinclair was sure and the fact put him instantly on his guard.

"If that woman really has a message from Madame Alvarez she will surely not let me get away without delivering it," he thought. "If, on the other hand, it is some plot of our enemies to get some information about us it will be best for me to pretend not to have heard her and to deny my identity if she commits me."

Sinclair smiled as he mentally uttered the words "our enemies." In spite of all the risk he was running he could not help seeing the amusing side of his joining forces with a clever woman criminal and making her quarrels his. Yet he had to admit that when he allowed himself to forget the risks he was running he was as much interested in winning this game as Madame Alvarez had called it, as if his own life and liberty depended on its outcome.

"I wonder what it is all about?" he mused. "Is she a queen of blackmailers or a Mrs. Raffles or nothing better than a vulgar second-story worker? And why is she trying to outwit Lesseps or some of criminals? That's what puzzles me most. I always supposed there was honor even among thieves."

Continuing a few steps as if he had heard nothing he paused deliberately, lit a cigar and looked back toward the direction from which the voice had come. There, in a doorway, at the entrance to a dark, narrow alley, stood a woman. She was almost completely hidden in the shadow, and he could only see that she was dressed in black and that her face was hidden by a heavy veil.

"He turned to look into the face of the woman in black just as she raised her veil."

Woman in Black

Pretending to have seen nothing he walked slowly on. He had not gone a dozen steps before he heard the patter of feet and felt the touch of a small hand on his shoulder. He turned to look into the face of the woman in black just as she raised her veil.

She was deadly pale and her eyes were swollen and red as from weeping. A long, ugly scar over one eye gave her features a sinister aspect. It was not a beautiful face, but it was one which once seen few men, or women, either, would soon forget. What refinement it had ever possessed had departed long ago, and it was disgusted now by a look of cynical despair which seemed to express a determination to repay the world in kind for long, weary years of ill-treatment. She was out of breath as she gave way, and it was with difficulty that she spoke.

"Pardon, sir," she said, with a pronounced accent which Sinclair was unable to identify, "but you received my message?"

"Madame," replied Sinclair, with the air of a man who, although annoyed at being stopped in this abrupt manner by a stranger, would nevertheless be courteous to any woman, "I have received no message. I do not know what you mean."

"But I saw you," she replied with just a trace of anger in her cold voice. "You took the white rose from the boy over there, and you could not have helped seeing what he said."

"But I assure you that I did not hear the boy utter a word"—he lied with all the blanding of a hardened criminal—"All he did was to press into my hand a withered rose, which I threw away. Why he did it I have no idea."

"Yet you come from de Lesseps," she insisted, "and you know Madame—"

Later Sinclair regretted many times that he did not let her continue and so learn the name she would have used after the word madame. But he was unable to explain his search for Madame Alvarez, and so he made no effort to catch an inward flutter of excitement at the mention of the name.

"I am not from De Lesseps, who ever that may be. I do not know Madame—" he began, and then a single person in the city of Boston. I am a total stranger here and am now returning to my hotel. Doubtless you have mistaken me for someone else. You must pardon me for keeping on now, but I am already late for an appointment of considerable importance."

The woman gazed steadily into Sinclair's eyes for fully a minute. Then, muttering an apology whose full purport he could not catch, she turned to catch an inward bound trolley, which had that moment stopped on the opposite corner.

At the time Sinclair believed that the young woman had in reality been deceived by his pretended ignorance of the meaning of the occurrence. Later he was to learn to his sorrow that her peculiar expression as she left him was intended to convey an entirely different meaning.

Waiting until the car she had boarded was out of sight, Sinclair hailed a passing cab and drove directly to the hotel, where he had last seen Madame Alvarez. Imagine his surprise to see the big red car standing at the curb exactly where it had been before its disappearance more than an hour earlier.

"Where is she?" he called to Dalton, who sat dozing in his seat.

Dalton pointed to the car, and Sinclair bounded up the steps. She was sitting in a secluded corner of one of the dining rooms studying a menu card as if there were nothing else in the world so well worth her while.

She smiled a pleasant greeting to Sinclair and motioned him to a seat opposite her.

In her manner there was not the slightest hint that anything out of the ordinary had happened, and he wondered if she would realize the painful tortures he had undergone since he had parted from her at the hotel entrance.

HEARST GAIN TOTALS 162 FOR DAY IN RECOUNT

NEW YORK, June 23.—In 160 Brooklyn ballot boxes, reopened in the qua warranto proceedings to test the legality of McClellan's certificate of election as Mayor, 162 votes for William R. Hearst not counted for him by the inspectors of election were found.

In fact, 166 votes which had not been counted were found, but only 162 were allowed by Justice Lambert. The others found were Eleventh Election District of the Tenth Assembly District.

The official return of the inspectors of election, however, called for three protested ballots, and the envelope for this district was empty. Counsel for McClellan objected immediately to allowing the votes found in the box for Hearst to be counted, and insisted that the original return of the inspectors be accepted by the court.

The official count gave McClellan 110 votes and Hearst 143. The recount disclosed only 108 votes in the box for McClellan and 145 for Hearst.

Clarence J. Shearn fought to convince Justice Lambert that the gain for Hearst should be recorded and sent for the tally sheet. In several cases in the past, however, Justice Lambert has returned to the original count in cases where the ballots filed for would not be found and he directed the same procedure be followed in this case.

Mr. Shearn will make another effort today to get the four votes found in this district into the record.

TAFT SNUBBED BY OFFICIALS OF PENN ROAD

PITTSBURG, June 23.—The Pennsylvania railroad, which in an impersonal way has been very angry with President Roosevelt since his swinging of the big stick began, got even with a member of the President's cabinet, in part at least.

It snubbed Secretary of War Taft, whom the Pennsylvania has understood is a very warm personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt, by refusing to hold a train for him at Pittsburg, and the refusal made connections very close for Mr. Taft in his race to New Haven.

A wreck in Ohio on the Pan Handle division of the Pennsylvania delayed the secretary, and failing that he might not be able to make connections at Pittsburg Mr. Taft wired the Pennsylvania officials, asking that a special train due to reach Pittsburg from Chicago over the Fort Wayne line be held for him a few minutes, as he was most desirous of making the eastern connection.

It is understood here that the request of Mr. Taft was not even answered by the Pennsylvania.

When the Republican nominee for President got into Pittsburg shortly after midnight he found that the train on which he had expected and hoped to be carried East had passed through. No one had been given any instructions to hold the train, and Mr. Taft was compelled to wait until 3 a. m. to get a train East.

'MY LIFE FULL OF MISERY'

—MRS. HAINS.

'He Lies!' Cries Beautiful Boston Bride of Army Officer Suing for Divorce.

WILL FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

Smarting under the accusations made against her, the beautiful Claudia Libbey Hains, formerly a Winthrop high school girl and now the wife of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., an aristocratic army officer, gave out at her parents' home in Winthrop today a denial of the statements made in a divorce libel just filed in New York, and intimated that if driven to the wall, she might reveal startling facts about society in the United States army and navy of which the public has little conception.

She declares that her husband merely wants to get rid of her.

"He is tired of me after eight years of married life," she says.

She has filed a cross-libel against her husband. She denies explicitly his statements regarding Haines's own friend, whom he names in his suit. She says he is a gentleman of "spotless reputation."

Bride at Sixteen.

Mrs. Hains was formerly Miss Claudia Libbey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Libbey of No. 85 Crest avenue, Winthrop. She was married at the age of sixteen when she was in her second year at high school to then Lieutenant Peter C. Hains, who was stationed at Fort Banks. She left Winthrop with her husband a year later.

She has now returned to Winthrop, following the crash in her domestic affairs at Fort Hamilton, New York, and the filing of the divorce suit by Captain Hains. The captain returned May 29 from the Philippines, in answer to letters from his brother, T. Jenkins Hains, the author of "The Windjammers" and other light literature. The three children born in the eight years of the Hains's married life are now in the custody of the father.

Captain Is Wealthy.

Captain Hains is wealthy in his own right. He and his father, General Peter C. Hains (retired), draw heavy dividends from the earnings of the Hains concrete mixer. They move in the most aristocratic army circles.

Last October Captain Hains went to the Philippines. His brother, T. Jenkins Hains, the novelist, called often on Mrs. Hains at Fort Hamilton, several times unexpectedly. Letters he wrote to Captain Hains about Mrs. Hains are said to have brought the Captain home and to have resulted in the Captain's divorce libel.

Mrs. Hains said today: "There is absolutely no ground for the charges which my husband has brought against me. The real truth of the matter is that he has tired of me after eight years of married life; he wants some other wife. My life with him has been one continuous torture. It has been a life of misery for me and for my children.

Planned to Elope.

"Eight years ago, while Peter Hains was a lieutenant at Fort Banks, I met him. I was then but sixteen years of age. I was attracted by the gold lace and the military surroundings. I was foolish then. I really thought that I was in love with him and I asked my mother's permission to marry him. My mother refused to allow me to marry him, and we were going to elope. Then mother decided to give the parents' consent and I was married here. Just when to deny the story that the wedding was secret, it was not. All of our intimate friends and relatives were present.

"For one year I enjoyed my married life. Then the doll's dream ended, mother and I found things as they really were. My husband never defended me or my children. It is not so much for myself that I care; it is for my three little boys who are growing up.

"We started in Fort Banks for thirteen months. When the first child was born. Then my husband was ordered to Fortress Monroe. Then the life of misery began. My brother-in-law, T. Jenkins Hains, my husband, and General Hains, his father, all were harsh with me. I did not live happily and wanted to get a divorce, but I was urged not to and I decided to try again to live with my husband.

Defends Friend's Name.

"Last November my husband was ordered to duty as quartermaster in the transport service to the Philippines. He left the three boys with me at Fortress Monroe and gave me an allowance of $125 per month. Out of this amount I had to pay for everything.

"In May, so I am told, T. Jenkins Hains, my brother-in-law, wrote to my husband telling him that I was very friendly with a very intimate friend of mine. The man who has been named by my husband in the suit is a New Yorker with a spotless reputation. He is very wealthy and one of the foremost business men of New York. While my husband was gone, and when my husband was at home the man named in the suit took me out automobiling. Every time we were accompanied by officers in the post and their wives. The man was always welcome at our home and he was treated as one of the family. He is a dear friend of my husband.

"On May 25 my husband came to my home at Fortress Monroe in a rage. He ordered me to my room and then accused me of awful things. He said that I was faithless. He lied. I am innocent of all charges; I never did anything wrong. There is not one atom of truth in the story on which my husband bases his suit.

"Tried to Get Rid of Me."

"For years my husband has tried to get rid of me; now I hope that he accomplishes his aim. I have brought a cross-suit against him. I want my three little boys; I want to bring them up properly.

"My husband ordered me out of the house that night. He then summoned his father and the man he named in the suit. He cursed that man. Saturday night he left and returned Sunday morning. He gave orders to my maid that no one should be permitted to see me.

"On the evening of June 1 his father and brother came with him to my room. There, I remember, I was forced to sign some document. I do not know what it was—and that is all I know.

"The next morning I recovered consciousness and found myself on the floor of my room. I was a nervous wreck. Dr. William Wilson, then surgeon at the fort, was called, and he treated me.

"Tuesday my mother came to me from Winthrop to advise me and take me from my troubles. My husband and his father told me that I was unfit to live children near me. He is telling a gross falsehood. When my mother came to take me away, my husband would not let me have my children. He told me that he did not care where I went, but that I could never come near my little ones.

"I Shall Fight to End."

"My lawyers have prepared a case that will take the Hain's family off their feet. I am sorry that this is going to be aired in court, but I shall fight to the very end. Mr. Hain's father, the general, asked me if I were going to fight the divorce and he seemed to be surprised when I told him that I would fight till I spent my last penny. I should think that for the sake of the three boys, if not for my sake, he would have kept the matter quiet.

"I want the custody of my three boys forever. We shall ask the court to give me the custody of the children while the case is pending.

"My husband, so I am informed, has tried to get all the servants, grocers and business men who knew me at Fortress Monroe to appear against me. Many of them have informed me that they will appear for me, if they are needed."

HUSTLERS WIN IN PRIZE AWARD FOR NEWSBOYS

Pictures of three more young hustlers, prize winners in the BOSTON AMERICAN'S daily reward to live newsboys, are presented to AMERICAN readers today. In his tour the camera man found these bright youngsters busy as bees passing out AMERICANS to patrons in their several sections and made them the subject of his daily snapshots.

Each of these wideawake boys is "right on the job" all the time and by courteous treatment of their customers and ability to anticipate their wants and pass out to them their favorite AMERICAN, each is daily gathering in a harvest of sinckels.

At Roxbury Crossing, the snapshot man found Ben Rossinski, of No. 1,265 Tremont street, a lively little paper merchant, who keeps on the jump all the time and is a general favorite among his patrons. He was snapped in the act of passing out an AMERICAN.

Joe Gotteson, aged thirteen, of No. 97 Winsor street, was caught by the camera as he busily waited on his customers at the Walpole Street Baseball Grounds. Gotteson is a lively youngster, who sells a big bunch of papers during the course of the day.

At the Pleasant street L station the camera man found Bernard Berstein, a bright boy of thirteen, living at No. 28 Genesee street. Berstein was making quick time in passing out his AMERICANS to a continually passing line of patrons and was caught in the act by the snapshot man.

THESE YOUNG NEWSIES WON PRIZES FOR THEIR ENERGY

POLICE THINK HUB OFFICER SLAIN IN MAINE

BELAST, Me., June 23.—New and startling facts which have just come to light concerning the death of Albert E. Knight, a former Boston patrolman, who was found dead on the bed in his room at his parents' home at Lincolnville, a week ago, with a gaping pistol wound in his brain, have thrown a shroud of mystery over the case and a further investigation has been ordered.

A pool of blood near the door in which the dead patrolman was found and a stained trail on the steps leading from the kitchen to the woodshed led many to believe that Knight did not meet death by his own hand, as was at first given out by Coroner Coughlin.

When found, Knight was in bed, still holding the revolver, with which the deed was supposed to have been committed, in his right hand. All chambers were empty. The bed clothing was pulled up snugly to his chin as though he had retired and killed himself while still in bed. The bedding was saturated, but there were no blood spots on the floor leading from the pool near the door to the bed which the authorities regard as the strangest part of this new mysterious death.

Some now hint at murder for revenge, while others believe that Knight was awakened by a burglar who was about to enter the room, and that a pistol duel resulted in which the patrolman was killed and the burglar wounded, which would account for the blood near the door and the trail leading outside.

Madam, do You Want a Germless Milk?

Here are the facts about raw milk, and the facts about Van Camp's. It will take but ten minutes to read them—then you can well decide. Please know the truth, then do as your judgment tells you.

The fact is this:

Not a housewife in this city will use raw milk after she knows Van Camp's.

You will never cook with half milk when you once know the flavor that Van Camp's gives to milk dishes.

You will never drink germ-laden milk when you know that Van Camp's is pure.

Is it not worth ten minutes to know the truth about something as vital as milk?

Milk Breeds Germs.

Milk is an ideal breeding place for germs. That is why it carries infections.

A single germ, left in milk a few hours, will breed millions of others like it.

Some cows are tubercular, and the milk from such cows carries the germs of consumption.

Some milk cans are washed in water which carries the germs of typhoid.

Some milkmen are diseased, some dairies are uncleanly. Some milk is subjected to foul air and to dust.

You know nothing about this when you buy raw milk. You have no way of guarding yourself.

But, when you use Van Camp's Milk, you are absolutely protected. There is not a germ of any kind in it.

Nothing but Milk.

Don't think of Van Camp's as condensed milk, for condensed milk is half sugar. Van Camp's is nothing but milk.

We simply take the richest of Holstein milk, and evaporate two-thirds of the water.

Nothing whatever is added—no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Nothing is subtracted save water.

We milk, in five states, 20,000 Holstein cows. Every cow is regularly inspected. So is every man who milks them.

Every dairy is sanitary. Every factory, where the milk is evaporated, is built without wood. We carry cleanliness to such an extreme that there is never a chance of infection.

Then the milk is sterilized after the cans are sealed. The milk keeps for years as fresh as the day we milked it.

Van Camp's is Delicious For Cooking.

Every woman knows this who has used Van Camp's. But she may not know the reason, which is this:

Milk that stands awhile separates. The butter fat rises and the solids fall.

Then you get one sort of milk from the top of the can, and another sort farther down. You never get the whole milk from the milkman's can.

And, perhaps, you skim what you do get before it goes into cooking.

In Van Camp's alone you get the whole, rich milk. You get 30% of solids—8% butter fat.

That's why all milk dishes made with Van Camp's are so delicious. The richest of raw milk cannot compare with it. Once cook with Van Camp's and you never will use any other.

We publish a book of recipes prepared by an expert on milk dishes. You can have it free if you'll write us.

A Cow in the Kitchen.

Van Camp's means a cow in your kitchen. Rich milk or cream—all you want, when you want it.

No waiting for the milkman, no shortage, no waste.

Yet it's even cheaper than raw milk.

Van Camp's is as thick as thick cream. So thick that you add one part water for coffee. Yet it doesn't cost half what you pay your milkman for cream.

Add two parts water and you have rich milk. And the cost of such milk, when you buy Van Camp's by the case, runs about three cents per pint.

Then you have no waste—no milk left over. That saving alone is enormous.

Best for Children.

Immigrant babies, when they arrive in New York, are fed on Van Camp's Milk.

They are fed under the direction of physicians who know the importance of germless milk.

The milk that is best for those children is certainly best for yours. Raw milk, like raw meat, is an unfit food, because of the danger of germ infection.

Children will find, when they drink Van Camp's cold, that the milk has an almond flavor. That flavor is due to sterilization. It signifies a germless milk. Children can drink all they want of it, without a thought of infection.

They cannot do that with raw milk.

Those are the reasons for using Van Camp's Milk. If you think there exists a single reason for not using it, it is based on mistaken ideas.

Sold by all grocers in 5c and 10c cans. Buy it a case or two at a time—it's much cheaper and more convenient.

R. H. WHITE BUYERS OFF FOR EUROPE

Fear of the R. H. White Company's buyers and department managers sailed to-day for Europe to buy their fall complements of Fall merchandise.

By thus going direct to the source of manufacture of these important lines of imported goods R. H. White Company offers patrons not only the very finest selections from the most famous manufacturers, but likewise offer the benefits of the very lowest prices, for the firm thus saves all middlemen's profits. On the other hand most of the smaller stores must buy their imported goods through some importing house, and must, therefore, add another profit to their cost.

The buyers who sail to-day on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., are G. N. Noyes, Mrs. G. N. Noyes, A. L. Pitcher and W. F. Ayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Noyes are making their semi-annual trip across to buy millinery, to get the latest styles and ideas from the original creators in Paris, London and Berlin.

Besides buying a great number of model hats, which will be shown at the Fall opening in September, they will buy large quantities of flowers, feathers, ornaments and other trimmings.

Mr. Pitcher goes to purchase the latest novelties in foreign leather goods, fancy goods and cutlery from such centres as Paris, Berlin, Vienna, London, Manchester, Frankfort, Leipsic, Sheffield, etc.

W. F. Ayers will make heavy purchases of linens, white goods and blankets, direct from the leading manufacturers in England, Ireland and Scotland, France, Switzerland and Germany.

Other buyers soon to sail will purchase gloves, hosiery, underwear and other women's apparel.

LEAGUE GAINS MANY VOTES BY ENROLMENT

LOWELL, June 23.—The Independence League added materially to its membership in Lowell last night when City Clerk Girard P. Dadoun threw open his office for the purpose of recording changes in party enrolment. Members of both Democratic and Republican parties were present and manifested keenest interest in the proceedings. Quite a number of the voters who called had never been in a caucus, so that it was not necessary for them to go through the formal ceremony of changing parties. It was announced that another night will be devoted to enrolment before August 21, which is the last day for severing ties for municipal nominations in the December election. The Independence League proposes to have a ticket in the election, and from now on much activity in the League is promised here.

WOMAN STARVES AFTER 40-DAY FAST

CHICAGO, June 23.—Mrs. Louis Thompson, forty years old, a resident of Zion City, the north shore town founded by the late John Alexander Dowie, is dead from starvation after a forty-day fast. She is said to have undertaken the ordeal in the belief that it would cure her of cancer, with which she was afflicted.

200 DANCERS GATHER.

TOLEDO, O., June 23.—Two hundred men and women from all parts of the United States and Canada, are here in attendance at the annual convention of the United Professional Teachers of Dancing of America. The convention will continue during the week.

SUMMERTIME PLAYS AT HUB SHOWHOUSES

UNIQUE OPERA CONCEPTION OPENS ENGAGEMENT AT THE MAJESTIC.

Probably the most unique portrayal of grand opera that Boston music lovers have ever witnessed is offered at the Majestic Theatre this week by Forsyth's grand operatic Millicent Band Company. Forty musicians and a dozen gifted vocalists make up the company, under the direction of Roman F. Cruz. An unusual feature is that the musicians occupy the stage proper, while the vocal artists appear on a smaller stage set deep in the centre of the large platform. The best scenes of the different operas are given. Miscellaneous band music is furnished as an introduction and at the entr'actes. With the opening of a woman harpist and the musicians are men.

"Carmen" was the offering at yesterday's matinee and "Faust" at the evening performance. The manner of production—the arrangements of musicians on the stage, the miniature stage for the vocalists and the order of scenes—seemed a bit strange at first, but both afternoon and evening audiences voted the performances delightful. Miss Maria Rosario Bianco as Carmen, Miss Amelia Perego as Frasquita, Signor Vincenzo Bertolo as Don Jose, and Signor Giuseppe Montella as Escamillo at the matinee. In the evening Miss Maria Percy appeared as Marguerita, Miss Mentia as Siebel, Miss Perego as Dame Martha, Signor Giannini as Faust and Signor Nino Lombardi as Mephisto. Miss Percy is new to Boston. She won distinct favor. Signor Giovanni Faust was admirable. Signor Nino Lombardi Mephisto was a trifle stiff at first, but later improved.

Sentiment Is Here

All true lovers of sentiment should not miss Clyde Fitch's rural comedy drama "Lovers Lane," which is being played by the Boston Theatre stock company this week.

How the Stars Twinkle

At Keith's this week is a distinctly mid summer bill, one that makes an audience realize that the season for stars in the open air is at hand. Gertrude Rutledge Phelan, a young Boston composer, has a playlet called "Lo An" which is charming. Miss Phelan is well known in amateur club circles, and the vaudeville version of her work presented last night in force to best advantage.

J. K. Murray and Clara Lane, known and loved by all Boston music enthusiasts, have an act called "Two Kids and a Queen" "A Knight at Home" it serves as a vehicle for some surprising songs, and for the best of these, "Love is the Light of the World," by the work of Annie Murtagh Mundella, as Ensemble at the matinee. In the evening Miss Percy appeared in the song. Miss Murray and Miss Lane were cozy, delightful and thoroughly natural in their sketch, "The Battle of Too Soon," showing golf and Cavorty. Agnes Scott, a Scotch comedienne, sings ballads and scales of operatic heights, created no end of fun and there were many encores.

Say, Isn't This Funny?

Merrily and musically as the Tremont runs the laughing way of that hilarious gaiety, "A Knight for a Day." The Sousa par pierre identified animals at the Tremont in mid-June are now an added magnet, adding to make every one night performance a runaway affair. The sweetly goose girl, a recently added novelty, is also a source of special attraction, principally of course, for the fair patrons—for is it not that the girls are more strongly attracted by the first public expositions of the new fashion in gowns? "Hang out the Front Door Key," a new comic ditty, is another speedy making for great applause. The bidder elopement scene by moonlight from the girls' boarding school of the colonel's lady servant" and her waiter bean is decided to be about the funniest situation ever seen in musical farce. The wedding chorus, where the "servant lady" gets quite intoxicated drinking champagne, thinking it water, is another scream spot of the piece.

Wickedness Loses

The usual large attendance was present at the Bowdoin Square Theatre at both performances yesterday of "Her Fatal Shadow," this week's popular offering. The plot is written around the adventures of a wicked and dangerous woman, Madame de Cova, who induces Judge Thornton to take her for his wife. Madam de Cova first married the judge solely for his money, but all her schemes go for naught.

The leading female role introduced Frances McHenry, who played the part with telling effect. Harold Chenoweth and other new comer, played the role of Bruce Benton, and Albert Hall was excellent as Paula de Cova.

Charlotte Hunt's annual benefit will be held Friday afternoon and evening, July 3. A host of talent will contribute to make it a real success.

Lobsters and Lillies

At the Palace Theatre the big stock company is presenting this week two laugh-provoking farces entitled "Lillies and Lobsters" and "My Uncle's Eye." The first named is a travesty on "Under the Gaslight," and the humorous side of this stirring drama is depicted. The chorus appears in some charming musical numbers in which they wear some very showing costumes.

The Palacescope presents a series of the latest motion pictures. Tomorrow night the girls of the chorus will contest for prizes, and on Friday night the amateurs will seek for glory.

One More Sheath Gown

Big audiences enjoyed the big midsummer show yesterday at Austin & Stone's. There was a score of museum attractions in the curio hall, among the number being Sandow and Lambert, the famous team of physical perfectionists; Glenfield, the ventriloquist; Olivette, the illusionist, and Feeney's boy band and symphony orchestra.

The theatre shows were replete with bright features, and among the entertainers are the Whittakers, Dorothy Stanton, who sang the "Chappie song," a specialty in which both Miss Norton and Miss Annie Travers, in some charming musical numbers in which they wear some very showing costumes.

The Palacescope presents a series of the latest motion pictures. Tomorrow night the girls of the chorus will contest for prizes, and on Friday night the amateurs will seek for glory.

New Picture Features

At the Bijou Dream the programme this week is one of the very best presented, it including a new attraction for this house, the Crescent City Quartette, four male singers with excellent voices. The grand opera phonograph selections were also well received, particularly the solo from "Martha," by Caruso and the solo from "Lucretia Borgia" by Mme. Schumann Heink.

The most interesting lecture, and in many respects timely, on Japan was also a good one, while the comedy scenes were received with roars of laughter.

At the Bijou Theatre the new variety of Miles Brothers' comedy and dramatic pictures are all that could be desired, while the selection of illustrated ballads is as perfect as are the singers. Baseball figures in one over the ballad called "Baseball," in which Ben Loring more than made good. The slides have some local interest, inasmuch as they show some very close plays in a recent game between Boston and Chicago.

Anyone who has never seen the presidential nominee, William H. Taft, now has the opportunity, as that distinguished person is being shown in moving pictures at the Theatre Comique this week. In the big list of motion pictures some interesting subjects are presented, among them being "The Selfish Man," a story of riches and poverty; "Honesty Is the Best Policy," a very pathetic story; "Two Brothers of the U. S. R. F. who are estranged for thirty years and reunited, and two comedy scenes. Among the illustrated songs presented "On the Banks of the Old Mill" is the strong attraction.

A new departure is being enacted at the Star Theatre this week. Four instead of two illustrated songs are sung. There are several entertaining acts, "Kachoo" is a laugh from beginning to end, and the "New Maid" makes a hit. "Determined Lovers" and "The Fighting Parson" are interesting.

The All New Paragon, the Park de Luxe of Boston, boasts amusement resort at Nantasket—but the biggest June Sunday attendance in its history. At the Paragon Pier there was a steady line in waiting for nearly three hours. The new chief, Herman Hottinger, is winning the admiration of all who try his cuisine.

Lincoln Beachey, with his dirigible airship and daily flights at 5:30 when the weather permits, is proving a great drawing card. Just a few feet from him is Professor Bonnett, who makes every afternoon his perilous ascensions and parachute drops.

The Sunday crowds at Norumbega are a sure sign that Summer is here. The Charles River, with its thousands of gay canoeists, and Norumbega Park, with over 10,000 amusement seekers, are a combination which means "hot weather has come." On Monday the opening bill for this week was presented in the Summer theatre. Prince and Virginia, a pair of charming comedy singing and talking entertainers, score a popular success. Vincenti brothers, in a very interesting act of singing, dancing and difficult whistling and the feature act of accordion solos and duets, call forth much applause. The Four Juggling Johnsons, club swingers and entertaining balancing and lively jugglers, present a mighty interesting act. Other features are Ward and Vokes, Lillian Mortimer, Ed. Morton, Ed. Hayes, Ed. Lee Dunbar, Ed. Lee Dunbar, Ed. Lee Dunbar

RUNAWAY CRIPPLES FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

PORTLAND, Me., June 23.—The whole fire alarm system of the city was made helpless for an hour early to-day when a runaway attached to a heavy express wagon crashed into a pole and, breaking it off short, brought down one of the regular fire alarm boxes.

Reduces Fat A Pound a Day

The Simplest, Surest and Most Effective Way To Get Rid of Surplus Flesh Without Drugs.

How To Prove It To Yourself Without Any Expense Whatever.

The first thing not to do when trying to reduce your weight is to take something that contains a drug of any kind, or try to starve the fat away.

The moment you begin to do that you give a distinct shock to the entire nervous and digestive systems, and though you may lose some fat as a result, you will lose your health with it.

Cases are numerous of fat people becoming permanent invalids to the use of starvation diets and dangerous reducers.

Fat people as well as others should realize that, as a general rule, there is a remedy for every defect of the human organism. Nature provides a remedy for nearly every disease. It is a law of the universe. This is true of that dangerous and uncomfortable disease—obesity. Nature provides a remedy, not from the dangerous drugs and biting acids extracted from minerals, but from extracts of fruits, plants, herbs and other organic materials which are harmonious to the human system.

Among such materials there is known a remedy for obesity which has not yet become universally known, but the use of which has already resulted in enormous benefit, and must probably in the saving of many lives.

This remedy is commonly called Reego. The rate at which this remedy will reduce fat, and do it harmlessly and surely, is truly remarkable. A pound a day is ordinarily the loss recorded, being done by compelling perfect assimilation of the food, and sending the nutriment where it belongs.

The most remarkable feature of Reego is that you can take all you want of it without running the slightest risk of harm. It can be chewed like candy and is pleasant to the taste.

Many physicians, who before were at a loss to know how to cure obesity, are now prescribing Reego with remarkable success. It is a great nerve-strength producer, affecting digestion primarily, and inducing a general exhilaration of mind and body. Wrinkles which appear in nearly every case of reduction of fat where injurious drugs and starvation process is tried, do not occur where Reego is used.

There is nothing "just as good" as Reego. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by The Reego Co., 3212 Reego Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail if you write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores.

For sale in Boston by James Drug Co., 5 stores; Houghton & Dutton Co., 55 Tremont St.; Henry Siegel Co., Washington and Essex Sts.; Woodward Drug Co., 100 Tremont St.; W. D. Hunt Co., 707 Washington St., 655 Mass. Ave., Cambridge, and 3 Pleasant St., Malden; Lewis & Co., 145 Washington St. and 130 Portland St.

HUB GERMANS ARE OFF TO LAND HEARST CUP

SEIKEL PICKED AS POSSIBLE WINNER OF FRANKFORT TURNFEST TROPHY.

Amid the cheers of hundreds of admiring friends and relatives, twenty-six German Americans left Boston on the Fall River express last night, bound for New York and Baltimore, where they will embark for the great athletic turnfest at Frankfort-on-the-Main. The tournaments, which are held every fourth year, begin on July 18.

With 475 other German Americans, representing more than fifty turnvereins, the Boston delegation will compete in the international tournaments, which will be watched with great interest by Germans in every country of the globe.

The question of who will win the magnificent trophy donated by William Randolph Hearst is uppermost in the minds of all the competitors from America. The beautiful trophy will be presented to the German-American society whose members win a laurel wreath (the first class prize) in the two principal contests at Frankfort and gain the highest number of aggregate points. The trophy which Mr. Hearst has donated for the fortunate American contestants is considered to be one of the finest examples of the silversmith's art in this country. It consists of a loving cup, silver and gondola of boats alive, the bowl of the cup having a capacity of sixty pints. It was made by the Gorham company and weighs 150 ounces.

Seikel Athletic Marvel.

When the Boston party arrives in New York to-day they will be met at the pier by Hugo Seikel, who has been picked to represent the Boston verein in all of the athletic contests. Seikel, who is considered to be an athletic marvel, is the only one of a score entered as aspirants who withstood the rigorous test imposed by Physical Director Louis Schmitt.

Five years ago, at the age of nineteen, Seikel finished forty-fourth among 1,000 competitors in the great turnfest at Nuremberg. At that time he was highly complimented by members of the royal family and by officers in the German army. It is expected by the German-Americans of Boston that if he maintains his present perfect trim and condition, the eagerly sought Hearst cup will be brought to the Hub.

Early to-day the Boston delegation, headed by Karl Eberhard, who is in charge of the entire American party of 500 left New York for Baltimore.

Festival at Baltimore.

This afternoon a beautiful German Summer festival will be given to the delegates by the thousands of German-Americans of Baltimore. Participating in this fete will be the delegates to Frankfort from all parts of the United States who will meet in that city. This evening a reception, concert and ball will be given to the delegates in Vorwaertz Verein Hall.

On Wednesday the delegates will board the steamship and sail at noon. Members of the Baltimore German Sing Society will take a prominent part in the farewell exercises which have been planned.

In the Boston party are Mr. and Mrs. Karl Eberhard, Custodian Eberhard of the Boston Athletic Association, Hugo Seikel, Fred Metzger, Paul Bottcher, J. L. Mason, Oliver L. Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Aliber, Mrs. George Fisher, W. C. Brownson, Mr. and Mrs. George Gaertner, Walter Gaertner, Carl Braun, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Brussendorf, Miss Anna Doering, Miss Anna Theleisinger, Mrs. Barbara Streider, Miss Augusta Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Stocking.

Karl Eberhard, in charge of the Boston party, made the following statement to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN just before the Fall River train pulled out of the South Station last night:

Anxious to Meet Voters.

"We are leaving Boston with the hope that when we return we shall have the beautiful William Randolph Hearst cup with us. Every delegate places the utmost confidence in Hugo Seikel, and we believe that he will be crowned with the laurel wreath—the first prize.

"All German Americans appreciate greatly the interest that Mr. Hearst takes in their pleasures and their work. It is with this thought in mind that we hope to carry the Hearst trophy to Boston when we return."

6 MONTHS FOR NON-SUPPORT; APPEALS

John J. McDonough of No. 164 D street was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction at Deer Island by Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court today for non-support of his wife and infant child. Before imposing this penalty Judge Fallon gave McDonough a severe lecture upon his duty as a husband and father. Unsubdued by lecture an sentence, McDonough promptly appealed. He was held in $600 for the Superior Court.

TAKES DEATH DRINK IN SIGHT OF FAMILY

WORCESTER, June 23.—Sitting on the piazza at his home, 130 Piedmont street, Patrick Malone, aged twenty-eight years, swallowed a ounce of carbolic acid without attracting the attention of his wife or child, who were both close by, and died before medical aid could reach the scene. Despondency over loss of work is said to be the cause.

SERVING 18 MONTHS IN JAIL; WEDDED

WORCESTER, June 23.—George E. Holt, who was recently sentenced to serve eighteen months in the House of Correction for imbecucilt, was married in jail to Norinne L. Lewis. Madden of San Francisco by Rev. Charles E. Simmons, chaplain of the jail. He went to San Francisco while on bail, and when he returned to Worcester to stand trial the Madden woman, who had been married before, followed him East, and the wedding resulted.

BASS POINT TRIP IS ONE OF PLEASURE

The hour's sail down the harbor and across the bay to Bass Point in mid-Summer will certainly do a world of good to the tired-out business man who seeks an outing which will take him away from the heat of the city to the cool ocean breezes which are always in evidence at this popular shore resort. The steamers leave Rowe's wharf, one block south of Rowe's wharf, at frequent intervals during the day.

PEOPLE DONE WITH MACHINES HISGEN SAYS

Leading Bay State Independent Meets Boston Admirers Tonight at Quincy House.

EVERYBODY IS INVITED

Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield, who got Lieut. Gov. Foss for Governor last Fall than the "Democratic" candidate, will be given a reception at the Quincy House to-night by other Independence Leaguers. There will be no banquet, no speechmaking; the Leaguers simply take advantage of Mr. Hisgen's presence in Boston to shake hands with him, tell him their faith in him and his cause is unbounded, and bring new friends to meet him.

Mr. Hisgen comes to town on business. "But I want to meet folks," he said. "All the time, wherever I go, I am talking to the voters. I believe the Independent movement in American politics grows with each day that passes. I believe, more than ever, that the American people are getting ready to break away from the old machines and vote as they please.

Anxious to Meet Voters.

"It is bound to come. This is the first step. In no other way will the people ever secure the direct nomination of all officials, the election of United States Senators by popular vote, the general initiative and referendum and the other great reforms for which we are striving.

"Formality was he wants none at the Quincy House reception. It will be held informal, in one of the main parlors.

"They liked me quite a lot last Summer, you may remember," Mr. Hisgen says, "because I set out to talk to every voter in my home county. If he was a farmer, at work in the field, I walked out into the field to see him. The politicians called it foolish. I liked it. I think the people liked it. One cannot do it in Boston, of course, but every here one can meet the folks who care to meet him, and that's what I am here for."

The Independence League City Committee of Boston will have representatives on hand at the office of the Election Commissioners to-night and to-morrow night to meet persons who wish to change their party enrollment. To-morrow will be the last day for enrolling in time to take part in this Fall's primaries.

AUTOIST FINED $15.

Edward J. McCaffrey of Providence paid a $15 fine in the Hyde Park Court to-day for overspeeding his automobile while passing through Norwood.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail

SCHOONER LOSES MASTS

Word was received here to-day that the Boston fishing schooner Mooween was badly battered last night off Bacllan Bank, Newfoundland, and her masts being swept away. In a badly crippled condition she put into Caplin Bay, Cape Broyle, N. F., to-day. Details of the accident were not given in the dispatches to the owners, Arnold & Wilson of No. 6 T Wharf. It is not known whether she was in collision with another craft or whether she sustained the injury from a gale. None of the crew was hurt.

The tug Underwriter left Boston to bring the Mooween back and also to save her cargo of 60,000 pounds of halibut. The schooner left Boston three weeks ago in charge of Captain Daniel McDonald.

BRIBE TAKER JAILED.

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—Frederick J. Linnell, who recently was ousted from membership of the Columbus Board of Public Service, pleaded guilty to accepting a bribe when in office and was sentenced to four years in prison and to pay a fine of $1,000.

PUT BAN ON NOISY BOATS

The snapping and puffing and snorting of motor boats in Marblehead has become unbearable, and the Board of Health of that town has taken measures to put a stop to it. Owners of motor boats dislike to muffle their boats, as it causes back pressure on the engine and reduces the speed. There are so many boats in Marblehead Harbor that sleep has become impossible for most people in the residential section, it is declared.

Many coast towns have passed ordinances requiring motor boat owners to muffle their exhausts, and a few have gone so far as to state the size of the muffler, but the Marblehead authorities have gone the limit. They require that every boat shall have submerged exhausts, which causes the minimum of speed, unless expensive devices are purchased for vacuum drafts.

NEW YORK DEATH RATE LOWEST YET

NEW YORK, June 23.—The death rate in Greater New York last week was the lowest ever known, 13.45 per 1,000, and 12.98 per 1,000 on Manhattan Island.

FEARS MISSING HUSBAND IS ILL

At her home at No. 22 Aldie street Allston, Mrs. John D. Marshea is anxiously awaiting some tidings of her husband, who has been missing since a week ago to-day. Marshea is a traveling salesman and he left home last Tuesday. He did not return as usual on Friday, and nothing has been heard from him since a week ago, when he was seen in Leominster.

Mr. Marshea is sixty years old and for some time has been troubled with a cataract on one of his eyes. At times he has suffered great pain and the only theory advanced by his wife for his absence is that this trouble may have taken hold of him in such a way as to slightly un-

ASSASSINATION OF SULTAN RUMORED

PARIS, June 23.—It is rumored in the parliamentary lobbies that Abd-el-Aziz, Sultan of Morocco, has been assassinated at Rabat.

There is no confirmation at the Foreign Office and the Ministry of the Interior regards the report as untrue.

BARLEY AND HOPS—a food and a tonic. A trifle of alcohol—an aid to digestion. That's beer. If you get a pure beer—well aged—nothing is better for you.

It is not good advice to say "Don't drink beer." There are many who need it.

Your doctor advises beer. The healthiest peoples of the world drink the most of it.

But it is good advice to say, "Don't drink the wrong beer." Some beer causes biliousness. Schlitz does not.

Schlitz beer is both good and good for you.

Nine people in ten would be better for drinking it.

Schlitz is the home beer, because of its absolute purity. It is aged for months, then filtered, then sterilized. There are no after effects.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.
To avoid being imposed upon, see that the cork or crown is branded Schlitz.

20,000 CLUBWOMEN IN HUB FOR CONVENTION

GREATEST GATHERING IN YEARS MEETS IN SYMPHONY HALL TO-DAY.

Twenty thousand women, delegates, attendants and interested spectators, are ready to-day for the formal opening in Symphony Hall to-night of the greatest convention of clubwomen that the world has known.

It is the ninth biennial convention of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, which is to last a fortnight.

Five thousand of the women come from America, as she is styled by the delegates, was instantly recognized as she walked down the aisle on the arm of her daughter, Mrs. Laura Richards, and the entire audience rose and remained standing until the venerable woman was seated.

One of the most striking features of the opening day occurred at the concert by the symphony players at Symphony Hall last evening. It was estimated that there were fully 2,500 women in the hall, nearly all of whom were from outside the State, the local members having given their visitors preference in the matter of seats.

During the evening Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who had come up from her State home at Newport unexpectedly, entered the hall. The venerable woman,

WONDERFUL STAGE DECORATIONS AT SYMPHONY HALL

The decoration of the stage at Symphony Hall will be the most elaborate and beautiful decoration that has ever been attempted in this country. Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd planned and is directing the work. Nothing will be done toward decorating the beautiful auditorium, Mrs. Todd believing that any attempt to elaborate on its natural attractiveness would be in line with painting the lily.

On the stage, however, she has built an old Venetian garden which, though of necessity small, has the effect of being vast. This effect is brought about by the careful placing of painted backgrounds showing long vistas of gardens in keeping with the stage decorations. The whole effect is very formal and entirely in harmony with the decorations of the auditorium.

There are stretches of grass and gravel walks, box hedges, bay trees, stone columns and fountains, statuary, urns and every detail requisite to formal landscape architecture, and all placed with strict regard for the accepted forms of French gardening of the period preceding the revolution.

The State banners will be placed in the hall to-night and the delegates are expecting to take their proper seats at the meeting this evening. Before then there will be nothing of a decorative nature in the body of the hall. The banners were placed according to a plan of Mrs. Charles G. Perkins, of Knoxville, Tenn., corresponding secretary of the General Federation.

"When the schools close and vacations begin the real park season is on and not before" is the assertion of a show manager. That time is now at hand.

Wonderland has felt no business depression, though it is said Western and South ern Summer parks have complained of light attendance.

The management of Wonderland Park has booked some screamers for the free shows. One of the best and most spectacular of the present performances is that of the Five Flying Rolos on a triple trapeze over the circus arena. There is scarcely anything in trapeze work that this crowd does not attempt.

In pursuance of the policy of getting everything that is good and getting it quick Manager Higgins left Sunday for New York, Philadelphia and Chicago to look over the amusement enterprises in the principal parks of those cities. In his absence the affairs of Wonderland are in the hands of Assistant Manager Perry.

The Belbe Sisters opened their high tight wire turn in the free arena yesterday and more than justified the encomiums sung for them on the other side of the Atlantic.

The Sunday American Outing club turned out by the thousands yesterday and the Sunday crowds at Wonderland and Park as guests of the Sunday American, with added tickets for the Spook Minstrel Show, the novel ghostly aggregation of singers, dancers and comedians playing at Wonderland for the first time in any Summer park. The production is staged by Manager Youngsteen. Sol. Wolens, last year's manager of Nick's Tours, has taken charge of the house for the season.

Roller skating races between girl champions are likely to be pulled off this week.

The Japanese drama, put on by Japanese actors, and actresses who speak and sing in English, is scheduled to be pulled off. Arrangements are being made to open this week the show in Boston Sunday afternoon, every detail requisite to formal landscape architecture, and all placed with strict regard for the accepted forms of French gardening of the period preceding the revolution.

The State banners will be placed in the hall to-night and the delegates are expecting to take their proper seats at the meeting this evening. Before then there will be nothing of a decorative nature in the body of the hall. The banners were placed according to a plan of Mrs. Charles G. Perkins, of Knoxville, Tenn., corresponding secretary of the General Federation.

Automobile Madonnaleslie Noyi has taken her automobile act to Pittsburg for two weeks. Wonderland Park patrons will be doubly thrilled with a still more exciting act to come to the park within a week or two.

The Miniature Railway at Wonderland is doing an increased business since the school closed, this being a particularly enticing ride for the little folks. Children at Dorchester House. All fashionable London was in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. West started Galway.

JEAN REID MARRIED AMID REGAL SPLENDOR

KING, QUEEN AND FLOWER OF BRITISH NOBILITY AT BRILLIANT LONDON CEREMONY.

Special Cable Hearst News Service.

LONDON, June 23.—With the King and Queen of Great Britain, other royalties and the flower of the British nobility as witnesses, the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Jean Reid, daughter of Whitelaw Reid, Ambassador Reid, and the Hon. Hubert Ward, brother of Lord Dudley, was performed at St. James' Palace today.

The wedding was the greatest social event of the London season.

Miss Reid was led to the altar by her father. The wedding march was sung by a choir, the members of which wore the quaint costumes dating back to the fifteenth century. Rev. Edgar Sheppard (dean of the Royal Chapel) and Dr. William H. Grosvenor, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, New York, were the officiating clergy. The bride's gown was of white lace satin, cut empire fashion with high waist. Running from the waist down were panels of the finest old rose point lace, which were a gift from the grandmother, Mrs. D. Ogden Mills. There were little sprays and tiny rosebuds and orange blossoms to add a picturesque effect to the gown. The veil of old rose point lace completed the gown.

Six Costumed Pages.

Six pages in costume held up the train. They were Hon. Roderick Ward, son of Lord Dudley; Hon. Nigel Glyn and Hon. Marien Glyn, children of Lord Glyn; Master Robert Shaw and Master Ward, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss James, daughter of Admiral James, all of the diplomatic corps.

Among the hundreds of other guests were a large number from Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, a gray enamel clock from Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin, a sapphire and emerald brooch from Mrs. J. W. Mackay, a diamond and diamond purse from Mrs. Potter Palmer, diamond hairpins from the Misses Vanderbilt and Katie Bryce, a diamond and sapphire buckle from Lord and Lady Craven, a diamond hat pin from Mrs. J. L. Harriman, coffee cups and saucers from Lord and Lady Loewburn, silver dishes from Mr. and Mrs. Jay Parker, a diamond and emerald bracelet from Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, as well as handsome presents from the Japanese and Austrian embassies and other members of the diplomatic corps.

Among those invited to the ceremony in the Chapel Royal were all the Ambassadors and Ministers plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James.

Wears King's Gift to Altar.

On her wedding to the altar Miss Reid wore but three pieces of jewelry, with the exception of her engagement ring. They were the gift of the King and the Queen and of Mr. Ward. The Queen's gift was similar to that sent by the King, while Mr. Ward's gift was a bracelet of rubies.

Two thousand invitations were issued for the wedding, as the royal chapel seats less than that number. The reception after the ceremony, however, was the largest ever given at Dorchester House, anybody prominent in social and political life of London was invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward will spend a greater part of their honeymoon at Lord Dudley's country seat, Moor Lodge, Movum Cross.

MISS ELKINS TO WED DUKE IN OCTOBER

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT THAT D'ABRUZZI HAS WON YANKEE BRIDE.

Special Cable to the Boston American.

TURIN, June 23.—It has been officially stated that the wedding ceremonies of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Elkins will take place at the royal palace of Racconigi in October, in the presence of all the members of the house of Savoy.

LEGISLATOR GRADY WEDS MISS SINNOTT

Miss Catherine N. Sinnott was married to Representative Thomas J. Grady at St. Leo's Catholic Church, Dorchester, at 8 o'clock to-day. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Francis J. Butler, pastor of the church. The wedding was quiet, owing to the recent death of the bride's mother, and only the members of both families were present.

The bride wore a white mesaline gown, trimmed with duchess lace, and large white picture hat. She was given away by her father, Michael Sinnott, and her sister, Miss Helen Sinnott, acted as maid of honor. Joseph E. Kehoe, of East Boston, was the best man.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, No. 70 Bernard street, after the couple left for a New York honeymoon trip. They will visit Philadelphia and Washington. They will live at No. 342 Hanover street, Boston.

QUARREL, KILL EACH OTHER DUEL

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 23.—R. B. Miller and Edward Jones, wealthy cattlemen, died in a duel near Mc-Donald, N. M., 200 miles east of here. They were neighbors, and quarreled over a cattle trade. Guns were drawn and fired simultaneously. Both men were instantly killed. The trouble is said to have been the outgrowth of an old feud.

BOSTON TO SEE GLACIA CALLA IN VAUDEVILLE

Glacia Calla says she is tempted by Boston. She has a fine offer, and may drop her concert plans to accept. Glacia, who came into prominence when she accompanied her husband, Paul Foy, of shooting her brother to death at her country place in Newington, N. H., is visiting her brother's widow, Mrs. George Carkin, at the latter's home in Dorchester.

Questioned as to when Boston was to hear her in concert, Miss Calla said: "I can't quite tell you. They have made me a splendid offer to appear in vaudeville here, and, although I hate after ten years' hard study to put aside the ambition of my life for the time being, I need the money so badly that I am seriously thinking of accepting."

Speaking of Foy, Miss Calla said: "He does not enter into my plans for the present or the future. He is something I try to push out of my thoughts. I am content to let bygones be bygones until more auspicious moment arrives."

SAILOR KILLED IN FRISCO.

FALL RIVER, June 23.—Word has been received of the accidental death of James W. Tracy, a Fall River youth, who was on the battleship Connecticut. He had leave of absence Sunday in San Francisco, and fell from a mast.

HOLD TRAMP AS GEM THIEF

Because of the detective instincts of Patrolman Cain of Medford, John D. Cavenaugh, home unknown, is now facing trial before the Grand Jury for larceny. Cavenaugh was locked up at Medford a week ago as a vagrant.

Patrolman Cain didn't like his looks, and asked that the court hold him while his record was looked up. A search of his room brought to light $100 worth of jewelry, which the police claim was stolen from the home of Mrs. William H. Casey of Medford on June 14.

In the Malden District Court this morning Judge Bruce found probable cause, and held him for the Superior Court in $500 bonds.

The Manicure Lady Just Loves Real Literature

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"DON'T you just love to read magazines?" asked the Manicure Lady.

"Some of 'em," replied the Head Barber. "I like the ones with prize fight stories in 'em, and 'How Jockey Jimpson Won the Handicap,' and all that kind of dope. I'm keen for the sporting stories."

"Them ain't what I call real literature," said the Manicure Lady. "I like the kind with the picture of a angel child on the cover—a angel child riding with a fellow in a automobile. There's mostly always a swell love story in them kind of magazines. I was reading one this morning, one of the dearest love stories you ever come across. It is called 'Where All the World Is Fine.'

"Is it a story about Sheepshead Bay?" eagerly asked the Head Barber, who hates the worst frost in the world just now, I reckon.

"No, it ain't about Sheepshead Bay," said the Manicure Lady. "It's about Alaska, when the people was up there digging gold. Here is the dearest story, first off making love it have ever saw. Listen, George."

The Head Barber gripped them in its steel clutch. The cold hurt them. Subconsciously he realized that the Head Barber's was as nothing in the plight to which they had come.

"And his wife, the little girl wrapped in his fur coat, looked into his eyes, into her eyes and then into the pitiless, frost-filled heavens, and then she dropped like a log!"

Love, Then the Reaper

"What made him slug her?" asked the Head Barber. "It's a funny love story where a guy would beat his wife."

"He didn't slug her," exclaimed the indignant Manicure Lady. "She was over come by the cold. And this is the rest of the story, George:

"He stood alone, then. She was a pitiful little bundle of black, prone upon the frozen snow. She he knew had lost and come, but with its advent came the Reaper, and a fair flower crumpled in the wilds of Chilkoot Pass.'

"Did he lose her?" asked the Head Barber.

"Of course he lost her, stupid!"

"Then why did he shake her to all the cold weather?" demanded the practical Head Barber. "If I was clean gone on a girl you can bet your manicure set that I wouldn't leave her to die by Chilkoot Pass. I dunno where that is, but it's too cold for yours truly, and probably too far away for me to scrape up the transportation if I wanted to get there.

"No use talking, kiddo; I ain't strong for them love stories in the magazines. The Misses was reading me one the other night up to the flat. It was called 'Queenie, the Pride of Queens County,' and it told how a young millionaire came there from Manhattan in an automobile.

Politics Barred

"He came all the way from the race track. He would have got there sooner, only his touring car couldn't go very fast, because there was three bookmakers hanging on behind, stealing a ride.

"'Will you love me always, Queenie?' the story says. 'Will you always be my Queenie? If I'll be your Roosevelt will you be me Taft?'

"'Cut out your kiddin,'" snapped the Manicure Lady. 'The story never said that. If the story said that, it wasn't no love story. Love stories ain't got politics in 'em.'

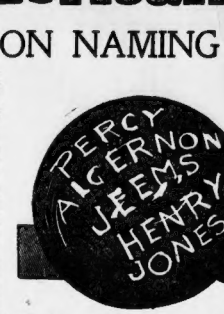
"The story said it, all the same," insisted the Head Barber. "It said a lot more, too, 'Queenie,' says the young millionaire, 'please wed me when the orchards are white with May blossoms.'

"'But we won't have to live near the orchard, dearest,' says Queenie. 'I want to live in a apartment house on Riverside Drive,' she tells the millionaire. Then they get married, and the story is to be continued in the next number.'

"It's funny how they always have 'em continued," remarked the Manicure Lady. "Just about the time you are reading the interesting part of them love stories, the part where the loving couple is just married or just about to be, it says 'Continued in our Next.' I wonder why?"

"I reckon there's two reasons," said the Head Barber. "Partly so you'll buy the next number, and partly to give the hero and heroine a chance to get a divorce."

MIRANDY ON NAMING THE BABY—BY DOROTHY DIX



Meantime the baby is not consulted, and is doomed to drag around through life whatever cognomens its parents decide to impose upon it as a handicap.

"ALMIRY axed me, as I was passin', to drap in an' tell you dat she couldn't fetch yo' clothes outen de room of de week, 'cep' as how she was sort of Providentially bedecked wid a bust up an' a black eye," said Mirandy.

"Yessum; she an' Jeems Henry had a little family argyument last night, an' dis mawnin' Jeems Henry is a-settin' up wid a spotted arm an' a bruised shoulder an' de armicky tootle, an' Almiry is on de limp applyin' poultices what dey will do de most good."

"De Lan's sakes, 'selaims I when I sees 'em, 'what in de name of de Lawd is you two fools been doin' to git banged up dat way? You looks lak a cattle car is done run over you.'

"We was a-tryin' to name de baby,' says Almiry, talkin' thick through her swelled mouf an' de place whar she done lose her teeth in de scrimmage.

"Well, 'selaims I, 'I'll be a-sprinkle Standard lie on de troubled waters, 'f'se sho' you parients dat some odd wuss don you did when dey tackled dat job. Ah took Sally an' Alberta two months to git out of de hospital after dem Ben was christened, an' even den de Sisters claimed him when dey was too sufferin' to know what was happenin'. Sandy Jim had a baby shortly is a ticklish an' dangerous undertakin.'

"'His's all Almiry's fault,' says Jeems Henry, 'for is a reasonable man, an' of she had jest gone along sensible an' christen dat boy de name I done pick out for him befo' he was born, dere wouldn't a been none of dis hush trouble, an' I wouldn't a lose dem dollars for hold laid off from work along of a fat iron an' a rollin' pin.'

"'De name you pick out for dat chile befo' he was born,' cries Almiry, a-rubbin' herself lack an' forth, 'de ent's Paul. I'll let you know, nigger, dat you don't know nothin' about pickin' out names. I done name dat chile when I was a gal, long befo' I ever thought about marryin' you.'

"'Furthermoh, dat baby is my baby, an' I'se gwine to name hit what I pleases, Henry.'

"'I thinks dat de name of Percy Algernon is perfectly grand,' says Almiry. 'I has always loved hit sence I read dat sweet chuckle-headed name. Naw, dat de precious name of de hero what disported hisself in his pa-triotic yacht, er on his noble charger, or walked through his ancestral halls, was named dat a way. But he was a man what had to be beautiful but lowly heroine, an' when she fell sick hit shorely was a mighty hard row to hoe when she called his name, "Percy Algernon! Percy Algernon!" when she was out of her hald.'

"'Humph!' 'selaims Jeems Henry, 'wid a dissemblumptious look, 'anybody dat calls a possum Percy Algernon shorely is out of dere hald. But dat ain't neider here nor dere. Maybe Percy Algernon is all right for a man to be named, but I'se called if he is one of dese heah millionaires, but what I wants to know is what is befoh dis is got to lay bricks or disport hisself a whut carpenterin' on a scaffold is gwine to do wid a name dat has to be handled in sec-tions.'

"'I lay dat de first jump out of de box I'm a man dat sees for a job wid dat name he is gwine to git turned down so long dat his boss langwidge on sich onhappy occasions, an' nobody but he won't have to tote a name dictionary around in his pocket to remember by when he wants to call him.

"'Now, Pete is a handy name, widout frills on hit, an' nobody but Pete an' Percy Algernon I puts my money on Pete to git safely every time.

Names Don't Fit

"'Besides dat, Sis Mirandy,' goes on Jeems Henry, 'how you gwine to tell whedder dat boy is gwine to grow up to look lak dat highfalutin' name or not?

"'Dat's so,' spons I. 'Dere's Sis Lily, what I wants to know is what is befoh she is a small dat's edzactly seem to suit her name, sorry as how she lifts de scales at 279 pounds, an' hit takes a wash-line to measure around her waist. An' dere's Sis Violet, dat gits biled drunk, an' has to be ca'ried home by de gerdies for her flow of language on sich onhappy occasions, an' how does you reckon dat name suits her?

"'Now, Almiry,' I spons, 'I'se a-gwine to call him Jeems Henry for short.'

"THE BATHING GIRL" No. 1 in a Series of Summer Girls BY NELL BRINKLEY

If I Were a Man; a Girl's View of the Case

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

MEN are very fond of saying, "By George, if I were a woman I'd do so and so," or "It beats me how a woman can do so and so."

Well, my lords, we women sometimes think along the same lines. There are some things we would or would not do if we were men, and it beats us—oh, how very much—it beats us—how you can do some of the things you do.

It beats us how a man can come home smelling of whiskey and tobacco and expect to kiss his wife and baby.

It beats us how a man can be conceited enough to think that a woman ought to be fully satisfied to have married one of the lords of creation, and that she should not expect anything more than her board and clothes and the privilege of waiting on her lord and master.

It beats us how a man can expect to give his wife only ten dollars a week and then have her set a table like a millionaire's.

And most of all it beats us how a man can consider it a privilege to pay attention to a girl, take up the best years of her life, keep her constantly from her, and then walk off and leave her.

About Equal?

"Come, gentlemen, don't you think our "beefs" about equal sorts?

If I were a man, I would treat women as an equal and not as a doll or a slave.

If I were a man, I would not always consider that my opinion was final, and that it admitted of no argument.

If I were a man, and I said to my wife, "If you don't like the dinner you can dress again I'll give you another," I'd keep my promise.

If I were a man, I will not address my wife in tones that I would not dare to speak to a servant woman.

If I were a man, with all a man's liberty and chances, I'd make something of myself or perish in the attempt.

If I were a man, I would not ask a girl to marry me until I had enough money to keep a roof over her head.

And, if I were a man, I wouldn't think that just because she had married me she had reached the pinnacle of bliss, and I need make no effort to keep her there.

For, if I were a man, I think I would realize that the mere fact of winning a woman does not imply that you can immediately cease to woo her.

Love is just like everything else in the world. It does not stand still, but grows greater or less. If a man is content to have it grow less, he ceases to pay court to his wife, but if he values it, he never relaxes in his attentions.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man twenty-three years of age and have been married for four or five years. For the three months after my marriage I lived very happily with my wife, but a disagreement between us my part my wife left me. I must admit that the disputes which arose between my wife and myself were due, to a great extent, to the interference of my mother. I have come to the conclusion, at this late day, that I was in the wrong, and as I dearly love her I would very much like to have you suggest in what way I may be able to reconcile matters and again secure my wife's love.

M. O. H.

IF you were to blame, go to her like a man and tell her so, and ask her to come back. If you are really and truly what you love and respect her, you cannot have her interfere between you and your wife. Promise your wife that there shall be no more interference, and perhaps she will go back to you.

Expert Hints on Beauty

BY THE PROFESSOR

ALCOHOL ON FACE

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Once a week I wash my face in soap and water and the rest of the week with alcohol three times a day. Will the use of alcohol, as often as I use it, cause wrinkles?

AUDREY B. C.

AS alcohol is drying to the skin, it is possible that excessive use of it might dry the skin into wrinkles after a time. Try witch hazel part of the time instead of using alcohol all the time. A good cleansing cream is made by melting one part of white wax with two of sweet almond oil, and then stirring in briskly four parts of orange flower water, keeping up the stirring until the cream is nearly cold.

OWING TO AGE

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Please let me know what will make me fat, as I am very thin. I stand five feet three inches and weigh 100 pounds. I am in good health and out in the fresh air.

FRED I.

SELECT your diet so that the foods are fat producing; drink plenty of water, except at mealtime, when you should drink none at all. Be sure that your food is well masticated; sleep long hours and in a room that has plenty of fresh air; take open-air exercise, but not to fatigue; keep your mind at ease. You do not state your age, but if you are young you will not so much off weight. Being short and fat is the last thing you should want. A tall man can afford it, but a short one, never.

Heavy Veils

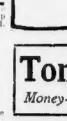
VEILS are topics of never-ceasing interest.

It is bad news to the brunette—who has, perforce, to choose her veil with even more care and consideration than that bestows on her hat, and who has discovered that her best chance lies in the selection of a very light open mesh somewhat sparsely spotted—that the fashion in Paris is all on the side of heavy black veils fashioned of silk net with a fairly coarse rough web, which supplies a notable contrast to the side-meshed veil of cobwebby fabric with which the smartest of her kits or the most up-to-date of hes evening dresses are trimmed.

Those heavy nets give a somewhat funereal appearance to a dark woman, and, unless thrown back from the face, there are more than a little apt to give the effect of an unbecoming black frame around the forehead and half, while in their arrangement over the face care should be taken that the veil lies perfectly smooth, without a series of black wrinkles or creases in the net on either side.

Tomorrow's Best Bargains

Money-Savers for Thrifty Shoppers Selected by an Expert



JAMES A. HOUSTON WILL offer tomorrow for 98 cents an excellent value in a white petticoat that is regularly worth $1.50. It is made with a fine cambric top, having a seven-teen-inch sectional lawn flounce, with three clusters of tucking, finished at bottom with hemstitching. This is a good practical skirt for every day wear with light dresses.

R. H. WHITE WILL PLACE ON SALE tomorrow a lot of children's dresses, made of princess style, of fine white lawn, with square neck and short sleeves, trimmed with the new border of Dutch figures that are a bargain at 69 cents each. They can be had in sizes from 2 years to 5 years.

FILENE WILL CLOSE OUT AN ODD lot of separate coats tomorrow at a very low price. The lot contains three black broadcloths and three lined with satin, seven semi-fitted blue serges lined with satin and white-striped silk, two made covert cloths, and four mixture tourist coats, every one a regular $15 model, to be on sale for $8 each. The sizes run from 34 to 44, but there are not every size in each style. Any woman fortunate enough to find her size will surely get a bargain.

YOU WILL FIND A DAINTY DRESS for the warm days at Conrad's that has just been reduced from $5.95 to $2.98. It is made of polka dot lawn, waist tucked front and back, cut with Dutch neck and has short sleeves. The skirt is full plaited, with fold at bottom of colored border trimming. There is also another style at the same price. It is made in a one-piece jumper of pure Irish linen, trimmed with white soutache braid, and is a very good value. Both styles may be had in sizes from 32 to 40.

FOR WEDNESDAY'S SELLING AT MacDonnell's Tremont Temple Store several dozen Gibson stock collars, made with white stock and striped bow tie, that formerly sold for 25 cents will be marked to 12½ cents each. These are smart collars to wear with the tailored waist and are bargains at this price. In the same department several boxes of tourist ruching containing six yards each will be offered at 8 cents a box for one day.

A LOT OF SHORT KIMONAS, that were 49 cents and 59 cents will all be marked to 39 cents each to-morrow at Wolf's, "My Clothier." In the lot are two different styles, one made of pretty Persian striped sateen in light blue and pink colorings, and the other of fancy flowered lawns.

A BARGAIN IN TABLE OILCLOTH may be had at the Boston Department Store to-morrow, when full pieces of 25-cent and 30-cent goods will be offered to readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN at 19 cents a yard, for one day. There is a large assortment of patterns, including plain white and plain colors, black patterns and neat figures.

AT BRINE'S YOU WILL FIND A SAMple lot of baby carriages and go-carts, about one-dozen in all, made of brown and natural reed, nicely upholstered to match, having hood, shades, rubber tires and patent handles, that were $12 to $15, now marked in many cases less than cost. They are beautifully made carts and are bargains at their reduced prices which now range from $7 to $10.

When you shake your SUNDAY AMERICAN next Sunday, Angelfaces, why a gorgeous "pic" of this Bathing Betty will fall out, ready to take a frame around. She will be all glorious with color—gay in a yellow bathing suit, with scarlet stockings with the shine of water on them, under a blue sky, with the blue-green surf shouting around her and the gray gulls wheeling over her. And she'll be called, in trim black type, along the margin, where you can cut it off before you frame her, "The Bathing Girl."

NELL BRINKLEY.

Helps for Busy Housewives

A new material on the market is a showerproof footcard—a light silk so prepared that the sudden rainstorms will not hurt it. It is foretold as a great favorite for Summer clothes, for nothing is so unpleasant as having to carry an umbrella, and when a new material upon her dress resisting the soaking Summer rain it will not be necessary to carry one forth prepared for a storm. This new material is shown in almost every color, exstor browns and gray being especially good. They are arranged in the regular footcard designs. The idea is one cheerily new, and in time we expect to have every dress material rainproof.

Always iron colored material on the wrong side. The heat of the iron will fade it if it be laid directly upon the figures on the right side.

TROOPS OUT TO QUELL RACE WAR IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas, June 23.—Nine negroes and two white men are dead in the race war in progress between armed negroes and blacks, and the State regulars and militia have been called out as the result of the killing of two white men near Hempstead.

Whites and negroes, well armed, are reported, and the prospects are that the bloody encounters will be resumed during the day, following a night of terror through this section.

At midnight Sunday 150 armed men marched to the jail at Hemphill and after overpowering the jailer and guards took out six negroes. Five were hanged to nearby trees and the sixth, attempting to escape, was shot down.

These negroes were Ned Williams, Jerry Evans, Will Johnson, Moss Spellman and Will Manuel. The oldest was twenty-seven and the youngest twenty-two, and all had been jailed, charged with complicity in the slaying of Hugh A. Dean, a white farmer, on Tuesday.

To-day Burgha, negroes yesterday Evans and Henry Thomas, negroes, were found dead on the roadside between Hempstead and Geneva, their bodies riddled with bullets. They, too, were alleged to have had a hand in the plot to kill Dean.

Following the discovery this morning the farmers of the vicinity armed themselves and started on a systematic hunt after a negro of known bad tendencies. Pistols and other weapons began to be seen in the hands of negroes yesterday and the county peace officers found they were powerless to cope with the situation. Requests were made to the Governor and a detachment of rangers were expected on the scene. The Houston Light Guards were ordered to hold themselves in readiness to take a special train.

HUNDREDS SEE OPEN AIR SHOW WITHOUT COST

Friday the Sunday American Outing Club visits care-free Canobie Lake Park with free tickets clipped from the SUNDAY AMERICAN. They will enjoy twenty-five cents' worth of finest park enjoyment, as many of them did yesterday.

Yesterday's weather was just the thing to make one appreciate the launch ride around the lake, the mammoth toboggan and other things, and the big crowd of free ticket holders made the woodland and lakeside ring with merry voices.

On every hand, at Canobie Lake Park, are paid attractions of the most pleasing character at lowest prices, while the bathing, fishing, shady walks and fun comprise rums give visitors every sort of recreation. There are open air shows and ballons, innocent games and amusement buildings. The big Japanese theatre is to open in a few days with a fine bill for the opening week. The Japanese theatre seats 2,500 and every seat is a good one. The shows are regularly ten cents, but their merit is equal to the better and higher priced attractions to other cities.

Remember, too, that the street cars from all the big New England towns and cities adjacent, land you right in the park, that the cars are finely equipped, make excellent time and the fares are moderate.

This superb natural and architectural combination of hills, groves, lake and amusement houses calls visitors from hundreds of miles in all directions. The big Sunday crowd gives excellent service and is charming and a merry round of pleasure every minute. In the evening see the mammoth electric fountain play.

FINANCE PROBE FOR SUBWAY LAND DEALS

COMMISSION ORDERS INVESTIGATION OF TRANSIT TAKINGS ON WASHINGTON STREET.

The Boston Finance Commission, at a meeting which lasted until this afternoon, voted to-day to investigate the taking of land along Washington street for the new subway by the Boston Transit Commission.

The motion to investigate was made by Finance Commissioner George U. Crocker. Mr. Crocker is a grandson of George L. Crocker, chairman of the Transit Commission. Making the motion, Mr. George U. Crocker at the same time asked to be excused from the session of the Finance Board during its investigation of the Transit Board. His request was granted. Hearings will be begun in a few days.

The Boston Common Council, in June, 18 without a dissenting voice, passed an order requesting the Finance Commission to give its attention to the Washington street land stories. It was charged that the transit board had acquiesced in the payment of sums for subway sites far in excess of the valuation of the properties. Some bitter personalities were indulged in

FELL CUPID'S VICTIM WHILE AT THEIR TASKS

Boston Merchant Weds Fair Malden Girl He Met at Store.

As the result of a romance which grew among the cares and perplexities of business, when much of the courting was done amid surroundings anything but conducive to the tenderer passion, Miss Christine Josephine Murdock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Murdock of No. 27 Boston street, Malden, was married to-day to Ernest Manahan, vice-president of the E. T. Slattery Cloak Company of Tremont street, Boston.

The wedding, which was as quiet and unostentatious as had been the courtship between the couple, took place in the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Malden. The Rev. P. J. Haily, celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the ceremony. Miss Grace Murdock, sister of the bride, and Robert F. Manahan, brother of the groom, were the only attendants.

Mr. Manahan has made his home for years at No. 14 Newbury street, Back Bay, Boston. He is a prosperous business man and the couple, it is said, have already entered his bond to distract him from the cares of his business until very fortune. Miss Murdock, just graduated from the Belmont Grammar School of Malden, entered the employ of the firm.

The pretty young graduate was employed as a demonstrator of cloaks, and as such traveled extensively for the firm all over the country. Mr. Manahan, in this way, was in her company much of the time.

Last Winter, in the interests of the firm, Mr. Manahan and Miss Murdock took a long trip to the Pacific coast, and it was in San Francisco that the vice-president of the Slattery Company and the fine looking young woman who wore the cloaks realized that the firm to show how well they appeared on a good looking girl fell in love in earnest. He proposed. She accepted.

So they were married. Shortly after the ceremony in the church the young couple took a train for New York, whence they will sail for a month's honeymoon tour in Europe.

TAFT JOINS IN YALE COMMENCEMENT FUN

CANDIDATE HAS BUSY DAY; TRUST MAGNATES LAUDED BY HADLEY AND GIVEN DEGREES.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 23.—Secretary William H. Taft to-day experienced the liveliest day of his life as Yale as an alumnus. The morning programme was given up to university matters, during which he spoke twice, and in the afternoon as a spectator he joined in a great frolic of the classes holding reunions, both on the way out of Yale field and during the baseball game between Harvard and Yale.

The members of the triennial and semi-cential reunions laid out a programme for a grand recess on the baseball field. The crowd was a record breaker.

Every train brought in crowds of Yale men, and early the college campus was the gathering place of several thousand men, who were ready to greet Mr. Taft when he appeared for the annual meeting of the alumni association in alumni hall, at 10:30 a. m.

The Presidential candidate is in the midst of an "all-trust" commencement.

Among those who will receive Yale honorary degrees to-morrow ill be J. Pierpont Morgan, financier; John Stevens, vice president of the New York road and formerly engineer of the Panama Canal; Otto Bannard, general disbursing agent of the Standard Oil Company in the East, and Samuel J. NEWSBOYS ARE ANXIOUS TO RIVAL SOUSA

That the Boston American Newsboys' Band is destined to become a musical organization which will make a name for itself, national in scope, seems to be assured from widespread interest which the boys are taking to it. The shorty musical genius shown by the bright boys who sell the newspapers will assure the speedy organization of the band.

Among the Boston American Newsboys' Band," the instruments, instructions, director's fees and every incidental expense will be furnished to the boys of the AMERICAN without one cent of expense so far as the newsboys are concerned. All that is to be asked of the newsboys is to show themselves that they devote time to learning how to play the different instruments and this scores of the boys who love music have signified their intention of doing.

Boys Are Enthusiastic.

From the enthusiasm already shown by the boys there is no doubt that Boston and Boston newsboys will speedily have another musical organization which will be the pride of this musical centre. In interviews with many of the leading news boys of Boston show just how they are receiving the idea to play.

"Here is the greatest opportunity that the Boston newsboys ever had offered them," said Morris Krimmer of No. 113 Leverett street, who is the hustling "newsy" at the corner of Devonshire and Water streets, beside the postoffice building. "The only trouble will be everybody will want to be in the band and a good many will have to be disappointed. I think it's a great scheme and you can bet your life the boys will take it up quick."

Stephen Wagner, of No. 22 Lynde street, who can generally be found hustling around the North Station, found time to say to a chum: "That band scheme is the best thing I've heard in a long time. It gives a boy a chance to learn a good profession that he can earn some money from after he gets too big for the papers. From the way the kids are talking about it I guess we will have a band that will be a beaut."

"I'll go in that band just as soon as they organize it," said Louis Gold of No. 73 Barton street, who was found in front of the old Granary burying ground on Tremont street. "When a fellow gets a chance like this he can't afford to throw it down, and so it's me for to be a music maker just as soon as they let me. Well turn out a band that will make some of them hustle a few to beat us."

Will Root for the Band.

William Wilson of No. 19 Dover Spring field street says that the Newsboys' Union has enough latent musical talent to turn out a band that will be second to none in the State. "I am interested in music myself," says Wilson, and I know lots of other fellows in the union that know a thing or two about it. When we get the band we will show people that we can do something besides sell papers. We will root for the AMERICAN and the band."

Joe Barden of No. 67 Poplar street is the bright boy who sells the AMERICAN in the Boston City Club. Joe has an opportunity to hear some good music quite often and probably his enthusiasm over the opportunity of becoming a real musician himself makes him mighty joyful, but here is what he says: "Hurrah for the AMERICAN and the newsboys' band. I will be in the band from the start. Take it from me, we will turn out a winner. I like music. All the boys in the union do. When we have a chance like this to get into a band of our own without costing a cent, will we do it? Well, I guess yes. There's nothing to it."

"I think the idea is an excellent one, and I have no doubt that it will be a big success. All the boys I have seen seem to favor the scheme and are dead anxious to get in it," said John McGinnis of No. 127 Endicott street, who sells AMERICANS in Haymarket square.

Louis Lippman of No. 5 Parkman street says that the Newsboys' Band will rival Sousa's when it has been going as long. "Our band will be a dandy. It can't be anything else, because the boys are all willing to work hard to make it a success. This gives the newsboys a chance to learn a good profession, something that they can turn into money by and by, and the boys appreciate the kindness of the AMERICAN in offering them the opportunity."

Max Heidgr Bergan of Newspaper Row has a reputation of not saying much and of talking to the point when he does condescend to talk. "It's a big thing. No chance to go wrong about it. The boys are crazy over it now. The American Newsboys' Band will be a winner." Such is Heidgr's comment.

Winner from the Start.

"It will be a winner from the start," says Jacob Suckolefsky of No. 81 Poplar street. "A band that will be a credit to us, that's what we'll turn out," says David Welansky of No. 175 Pleasant street. "The American Newsboys' Band," says Ellis Hall, "says Eli Hebitts of No. 26 Irving street.

That is the manner in which hundreds of other newsboys, members of the news boys' union, are discussing the matter. Enthusiastic to begin the organization of the "The Boston American Newsboys' Band will be an organization that for musical ability will rank high if the boys have their way. They realize that it is the opportunity that comes seldom and like the enterprising and energetic band that they are they are quick to grasp it.

1200 WOMEN IN PARADE DEFY MEAT TRUST

NEW YORK, June 23. "Down with the Meat Trust."

Rather starve than buy beef from existing prices.

"Crackers and cheese, but not a mite of meat."

Under banners bearing these exacting mottoes and amidst the wildest excitement more than 1,200 bareheaded, sunlit clothed women of all ages and sizes paraded the streets of the Brooklyn fashionable district to-day, closing retail butchers' shops, hurling defiance at the trust for raising the price of meats, and pledging themselves to refrain on one another all Summer if necessary rather than purchase one ounce of beef.

Reserves from every police station in East New York and adjoining sections were hurried to the scene. Stern faced little women gathered on street corners, gathering recruits to their ranks every minute.

In a word, the most remarkable woman's movement in the history of New York strikes is afoot.

ARE HOMELESS FROM BIG FIRE

SOCIETY GIRL BRIDE TONY

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., June 23.—Despite the efforts of the firemen from this and several nearby towns, a fire, raging unchecked for two hours late to-day before it was checked, destroyed a block of buildings, occupied chiefly by business men, rendered forty families homeless and entailed a loss of $500,000.

The fire broke out in the large building of the Barns livery stable, occupied in part by the Borden's Condensed Milk Company. And was soon licked from the Rye, Harrison, East Port Chester and Greenwich.

The entire block bounded by Westchester avenue and Broad street and Factory place was burned to the ground and buildings on both sides of living avenue were destroyed. The Baptist Church, half a mile away from the fire, was not ablaze by sparks and was partially burned.

BRYAN

Speaks to Millions through the Edison Phonograph

YOU can now hear William Jennings Bryan speak at your convenience and in your own home. He has recorded on Edison Records the most telling passages from ten of his favorite speeches. These Records are remarkably successful, faithfully reproducing not only Mr. Bryan's voice but every mannerism and inflection.

Recognizing the wonderful achievement of the Edison Phonograph, Mr. Bryan consented to make these Records, presenting his views on leading questions, and at the same time availing himself of the splendid opportunity to give his views the widest currency.

This is the first opportunity the American people have had to hear Phonograph Records made by a statesman of national importance.

The ten Bryan Records are as follows:

Swollen Fortunes	The Labor Question
The Railroad Question	The Trust Question
The Tariff Question	Popular Election of Senators
Imperialism	Conservation of Bank Deposits
An Ideal Republic	Immortality

These Records may be heard at all Edison dealers.

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

LONGBOAT IS REPORTED BARRED AT OLYMPIC

NEW YORK, June 23.—J. D. Whitham of Pennsylvania, W. R. Day of Yale and T. A. Rowe of Michigan will not go to London with the American team, which sails next Saturday. The official announcement was made yesterday. It was also announced that no man on the supplemental list would be substituted.

Dray announced some time ago that he could not go, owing to pressing business engagements. He was entered in the pole vault and was looked upon to even better his great record of 12 feet 9¾ inches. Whitham, who was entered in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and the 1,600-meter team race, found it impossible to make the trip, owing to business.

Rowe expects to pass the medical examination in a few days, and will start in to practice his profession at once. He was entered in the 1,500-meter, the steeplechase, the five-mile and the three-mile team race. All three athletes were safe point winners, and their absence will weaken the American team to quite an extent.

At a conference of the American committee yesterday it was decided not to take any men on the supplemental list. These men can, however, go along at their own expense, and if it likely that several will make the trip.

It was learned late last night that Robbins of Yale would go at his own expense, and that Derr of the Irish-American A. C. would also pay his own way.

With the exception of Ralph Rose and H. Beilah, all the members of the American team are now in the city. Rose and Beilah left California for New York last night and will be on hand when the steamer Philadelphia sails on Saturday.

There is talk of having the American team compete in the Pelham Heights Park next Friday afternoon. It is thought that in this way enough money could be raised to take some of the supplemental men. The athletes are in favor of the idea, claiming that it will give them a little needed practice before sailing.

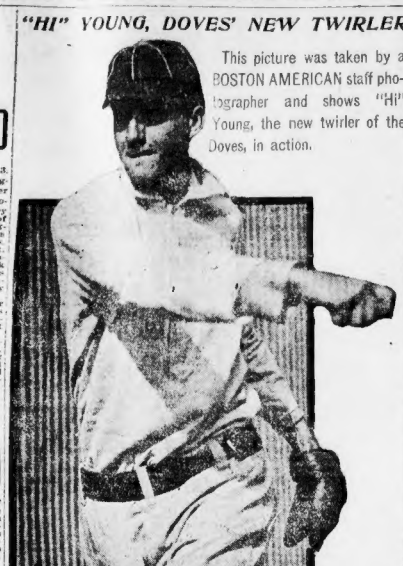
James E. Sullivan was in communication with Barron S. Weeks and Manager Halpin yesterday. Just what the cable dispatch read could not be learned, but from good authority it was to the effect that Tom Longboat, the Indian runner, is surely barred.

GREAT MILE AT READVILLE BY ECHO TODD

READVILLE RACE TRACK, June 23.—President J. M. Johnson of the New England Breeders' Association showed over this course the most sensational of the two-year-old futurity trotters in the country in Echo Todd, by Todd, 2:14¾, out of Annie, the dam of Phillis, 2:04¾, by working his today in 2:31, the last half in 1:07¾, and final quarter in 32¾, seconds the last two furlongs being at a 2:10 gait. This is more speed than has been displayed by one of his age over any track this season. At the conclusion of his workout the colt was turned over to Jimmy Carpenter to prepare for his futurity engagement.

Alta McDonald, the noted Albany trotter and driver, is reported here late this afternoon with his stable of six horses, including the new pacer Sonoma Girl, for the last two furlongs being at a 2:10 gait. William Andrews has wired from Pough keepsie that he will ship Sweet Marie, 2:02, and Sonoma Girl, 2:03¼, here for the big $5,000 race of the Fourth next Sunday, starting Monday. With him will come the other entry in the race, Wilkes heart, 2:06¾.

"HI" YOUNG, DOVES' NEW TWIRLER



This picture was taken by a BOSTON AMERICAN staff photographer and shows "Hi" Young, the new twirler of the Doves, in action.

ALL RED SOX IN FINE SHAPE EXCEPT MORGAN

BY A. H. C. MITCHELL.

"Glad to get home and very well satisfied with the trip." This is the way Manager James McGuire of the Red Sox felt about it when seen at the Boston American club offices today.

"Our boys felt sure we would get at least two out of four in Chicago, but we didn't win a game. That was the real disappointment of the trip. We ought to have had three of those games at least, but luck broke against us. Cy Young pitched a beautiful game against the White Sox last Saturday and they never should have had a run. Cy went after a little lumber, but couldn't quite reach it with his hand and the ball struck his glove and rolled to the bench, giving the runner second. The next man fanned and then the next batter hit an easy one to Lord. Harry took plenty of time, held the man on second and then threw low to Unglaub and the runner scored the only run of the game. Cy only made four hits off Cy.

Outfield in Fine Shape.

"Our outfield is playing grand ball. Thoney's arm has improved, and, while he is not throwing any runners out at the plate, they are not taking any extra bases on him. Sullivan has been batting like a fiend.

"The whole team is in fine shape except Cy Morgan, who has been having stomach trouble. I want to put him in the hands of a specialist as soon as he returns from Manitou Springs, where he went to see his sick baby.

"Financially, the trip was one of the most successful in the history of the club. We drew large crowds in every city except Cleveland, where they are feeling the effects of the business depression.

Trip Financial Success.

"Gardner, who played shortstop in the exhibition game at Rochester, is one of the likeliest youngsters I have seen in a long time. He played a far better game than the reports showed, one stop took off second base being a dandy. He hit a terrific liner for a home run which shows he can handle the ball all right. Carrick's home run at Rochester was one of the longest hits I have seen for a long time. It went sailing over the left field fence on a line and the fence is considerably distance from the home plate, at that.

"Our boys played fast ball all through the trip, and we made a hit with the fans in all the cities. McFarland caught some fine games and his hitting was a feature.

"The boys have now worked off the rough edges, and I expect them to make a good showing on the home grounds. All hands are hitting the ball and are long at they continue to swat we will win games."

The season ticket sale at O'Brien's office to talk business with President John I. Taylor.

LEWIS MEETS TEMPLE IN RING TONIGHT

Ready for the bell, Larry Temple and Harry Lewis, two clever welterweights, will be, will thrill the members of the Armory A. A. to-night with a ring sketch which will put to the test whether anything that has been staged so far season is genuine.

An opponent will face the clever Lewis who cares little for his reputation, knowing the power in the wallop he possesses in each glove, and the Quakee boy stack up against a veteran who has been waiting for just such a chance to show what he really can do against someone near his own weight.

The twelve rounds should be full of interesting sport, with Lewis trying to outstep his tough colored foe, knowing only too well that it will be dangerous for him to expose his vital spots, as Temple has a deadly aim.

Some good judges of boxing pick Temple to win, because of his wonderful ability at punishing, figuring that if he could nearly drop a heavyweight like Jim Barry he should connect with one like Lewis. He has the courage and the spirit behind him, which are assets many fighters lack.

There is also a great deal of expectation in the semi-final between Eddie Murphy of South Boston and George Ashley of Fall River. It will be for hardest task that Murphy has faced since he entered the game, and if he can beat Ashley he has nothing to fear from any in his class.

The show will open promptly at 8:30 p. m. with an eight-round bout between Young Delany of Northboro and Tommy Hyson of East Boston, lads who always perform to satisfaction.

HUB REPRESENTED IN TOUR OF AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Boston and the Bay State Automobile Association will be well represented in the forthcoming tour of the American Automobile Association. Frank Wing and Walter Murnon will jointly enter a team of three Marmons as coming from the local motor organization, while J. W. Maguire and the writer, both directors in the B. S. A. A., will make the tour in a Pierce Little Six, and W. C. Jones, another club member, will drive a Studebaker. It is possible that still another member of the club will participate in the tour. This year the Bay State will be represented to greater degree than ever before on a Gilliden tour. The fact that the tour will lay over in Boston for a couple of days will make it more interesting, and give the Hub motorists an opportunity to entertain their fellows from other cities as well as those upon whose shoulders will rest the work of caring for the glory and reputation of the city and club.

* * *

That the automobile is seriously considered by army officers as a necessity, not only for watching the movements of the army, but for a dispatch carrier as well, is evidenced by the fact that Major General F. D. Grant is using two Studebaker touring cars at the army maneuvres now being held at Pine Plains, N. Y., where over 10,000 regulars and militia are in camp.

While the use of automobiles for such purposes is comparatively new to this country, they are extensively used for this purpose abroad, England, Germany and France having used them successfully for some time.

The two cars will be in constant use during the entire month that the army is in camp, and the four-cylinder 30-horse Studebaker cars are now being submitted should be long and severe enough to settle once and for all the practicability of the motor car for this purpose. There also seems to be little doubt that the modern automobile is destined, owing to its speed and reliability, to largely displace the horse.

* * *

The Munroe County Automobile Association will be in control of the three days of speed and endurance contests at the Delaware Water Gap, for the object of raising like sixty machines, representing the best of American and foreign cars are entered. This contest is recognized as one of the events of national importance, and some great work as anticipated from the entrants.

SCHLAFLY HURT IN COLLISION

NEWARK, June 23.—At the game here yesterday Second Baseman Schlafly of the Toronto club collided with Catcher Philbin of the Newarks with such force as to render both players unconscious. Philbin was soon recovered, but Schlafly was unconscious for an hour and was then taken home in an ambulance, suffering from concussion of the brain.

O'BRIEN GOES ABROAD.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Jack O'Brien slipped off to Europe on the Zeeland last week without giving any of his friends any idea of his purpose. Not even his guide, philosopher and friend, Billy McCarney, was in the know. And, strangely enough, as Jack starts for England it is announced that Tommy Burns is coming to Australia. O'Brien should start in picking up the easy money where Burns left off.

OLD-TIME PLAYER DIES.

NEWARK, June 23.—Everett Mills, in his day one of the best known baseball players in the country, died yesterday at his home here. Mills made his reputation as first baseman with the Providence and Cleveland clubs in the seventies, when those teams, with the Mutuals of New York and the Athletics of Brooklyn, were the crack teams of the country.

JUBE AMHERST CAPTAIN.

AMHERST, June 23. Alfred R. Jube, '09, Brooklyn, has been elected captain of the baseball team for next year. Jube played shortstop last freshman year and this season in centre field.

FINAL PLANS FOR RACES AT NEW LONDON

GALES FERRY, June 23.—Final agreement has been reached by Yale and Harvard regarding the change in the time of arrangements for the three races here Thursday. The entire scheme arranged last April has been altered. The varsity race has been set for 5:30 o'clock p. m. It will be rowed upstream at that hour, unless conditions make it desirable to postpone it. It will then be rowed any time before 7:30 o'clock p. m.

The two minor races have been postponed till 10:30 o'clock a. m. It was originally planned to have them rowed at 10 o'clock. Not even trains from New Haven could, however, arrive at that hour, and the regatta was thus made, by their arrangement, simply an effort in which the spectators would be obliged to arrive the night before to see the freshman eight and varsity four races.

JIMMY MORAN TO RACE M'LEAN

Jimmy Moran and Hugh MacLean, two of the bitterest rivals in the bike game, will have it out at the Revere track next Saturday night in a twenty-five-mile race behind the motors.

These two have had several duals in the past and MacLean has been lucky to beat out the millman, but this year seems to be the premier one in Moran's career, as he won fame by beating Major Taylor, the sprint wonder, when Taylor was the favorite, and he is more anxious to give MacLean a drubbing.

All Moran's friends from Chelsea and the outlying districts will be at the front side ready to plunge on their man, as Jimmy has never played out nor form as this season. MacLean, too, was never going better, as was evident in the two races at the beach one, which he won by sensational riding, but he used to ride a man of Moran's speed. A few weeks ago Moran fell in a three-cornered race when he had MacLean beaten, which put him out of it, but he knows that he can take his rival's measure in a test of speed and endurance.

It will be a great pace racing card, as there is a ten-mile amateur event with Tom Connolly, Peter Drisdell and Charley Helander chasing the motors, and these top amateurs will show what they can do hanging to the engines.

The amateurs will also be out for the five-mile open and half-mile handicap.

DOWD TO PLAY SUMMER BALL

HOLYOKE, June 23.—James J. Dowd, Jr., star twirler of the Holy Cross College team, has gone to Richfield Springs, N. Y., and will probably join the baseball team which represents that famous Summer resort. Dowd received offers from some of the fastest teams in the country, but did not care to go into professional ball, as he has two more years at Holy Cross. Some of the best college players in the country play in Richfield Springs during the Summer.

NELSON PUTS HIS PARTNER TO THE BAD

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—Battling Nelson furnished a sensation to the crowds that went down to Colma to see him box. He cannot stand off and box for more exercise, but he crowds right in and fights his training mates and expects them to give back the best they have. He boxed six rounds, starting off with "Red" Corbett and winding up with Jeff Perry. This last mix was full of action, and resembled a fight more than a training bout.

Perry's nose was damaged and his mouth was cut so severely he will probably be out of commission for several days. Nelson did not escape unscathed, as he was bleeding about the mouth and his ear also was badly cut. He seems insensible to pain and attached no importance to the wounds, which would have frightened another man who had so important an engagement on his hands as a battle for the championship.

Joe Gans took things easy at his training quarters in San Rafael. He had a strenuous day on Sunday, when he went through considerable work in the gymnasium and boxed with Jack O'Keefe for the entertainment of a large crowd of visitors which crossed the bay to see him. He did his usual work on the road, but the afternoon's work in the gymnasium was omitted. He will do no more boxing until next Sunday.

The champion is at 136 pounds and says he will have no difficulty in dropping to the 133-pound mark during the twelve days that remain before the fight.

The first betting on the fight has been recorded. Nelson money showing up, which was at 10 to 7, with the Battler on the short end.

WILLIAMS, 2; AMHERST, 1.

AMHERST, June 23.—Amherst lost the last game of its season to Williams, 2 to 1, on Pratt Field. Templeton, who was in the box for the visitors, pitched a superb game, allowing his opponents but three hits. McClure, the Amherst pitcher, also did good work, but was poorly supported.

GLADE JUMPS HIGHLANDERS

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Pitcher Glade, who figured in a deal whereby Williams, Hoffman and Ferris came to St. Louis and Hemphill, Niles and Glade joined the Elkhorn, has jumped the Highlanders. Glade was fined $25 for not covering first base in the game against the Browns.

PAPKE IS TO BOX UNHOLZ ON THE 4TH

KEWANEE, Ill., June 23—Billy Papke and Rudy Unholz, the fiber fighter, have been matched to go six rounds as the principal attraction on a Fourth of July celebration that is to be held in this place, the home of the hardy middleweight boxer.

The event already has attracted widespread attention throughout the central and western parts of the State, and it would not be surprising to see those interested in the boxing game flock to Kewanee on this date.

Unholz is in Davenport, and readily consented to be one of the stars in the bout, and while the go will not be of a decision it will give the fighting game an uplift in the eyes of all those who have always been a prejudice against all forms of the game. Yesterday's field day on the same grounds races were held here and Billy Papke demonstrated to the assembled throng a lot of sprinters, that he, too, is "some foot racer." Papke won the fifty-yard dash in 5¾ seconds, and also the 100, covering the latter distance in 10 2-5 seconds. The time was reliable, as three well known handlers held the timepieces. The feats are all the more remarkable because Papke did not strip and wore only a pair of high shoes to do some jumping.

Papke states that he is willing to meet any boxer in the country in a go as long as a dash and states that if he ever should desire from the ring he will take up the fascinating game with some pugilistic institution.

FRANK SMITH CLAIMS HE WILL NOT PLAY AGAIN

CHICAGO, June 23.—Frank Smith, the White Sox pitcher left last night for his home in Pittsburg after an argument with President Comiskey, which resulted in the announcement by the latter that he was going to quit the team for good and all. Smith was accompanied by his wife and boy. His decision was reached late Friday evening after a talk with Comiskey at that time.

His teammates yesterday tried to persuade him to change his mind, but their arguments made no impression on him and he said good-bye to them before yesterday's game started. It is believed Smith thought he was being worked too often and that he was not getting a chance. It is hard to see how he figured this, since he has been pitching less than any of the rest of the staff and not as often as Doc White, but it is known that this is the Pittsburger's real reason for quitting and the manager tried to persuade him and, his chief, Comiskey, was kept a secret.

This is the second time this year that Smith has quit the team in a huff, and during the regular season and the last time he has actually gone home, although he has made several threats to do the very thing.

ST. ALPHONSUS BOXING SHOWS

The St. Alphonsus Association of Roxbury on next Thursday evening, June 25, are to have a boxing night of unusual attraction. All of the best stars have promised to appear. Already such men as Langford, Donahue, Quill, Melody, Eddie Murphy, Sky Fay, Young Cahill, Tommie Dawson and Willie Riley have promised to help fill out the programme. Hector Melanis is to be the leading star of the night.

Coupled with professional vaudeville talent, it will be a show well worth going to see. The magnificent theatre of the Club, which is artistically complete, seats 1,200 people. The building is located at No. 80 Smith street, Roxbury, in the rear of the Mission Church. Tickets will go on sale at the church.

The entertainment, which begins at 7:30 o'clock sharp, is to raise the fund for the Grover Cleveland monument, was formerly the Harvard Weld structure.

BIG SPORTS FOR PROFESSIONALS

Royal Oak Lodge, Sons of St. George, at Trenton, N. J., has arranged for the conducting of a mammoth set of professional athletic games on the occasion of the interstate fair grounds on the afternoon of Saturday, July 4, and the purses offered should be sufficient to draw out running. It will be the largest set of games in the State on that day and no better prizes are offered anywhere. Trenton is the fastest in the East.

The games will be a lengthy one, the main events of which are, one, two and three-mile runs. The prizes for the three are: One mile, $20, $10, $5; two miles, $100, $50, $25; three miles, $25, $15, $10. All entries close with Peter P. Carey, 1725 Chestnut, Trenton, N. J.

No, Justice Brewer, You Know Better

It Would Not Be a Return to Barbarism, but A RETURN TO TRIAL BY JURY

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court is a good judge, a good man, one that the people of the country can be proud of and glad to see on their Supreme Bench.

But this good judge acts as others act, when HIS ox is gored. Human beings easily swallow and assimilate authority, and cry for more.

If you allow Judge Brewer or any other judge to be A MAKER OF LAWS, instead of limiting him, as you should, TO APPLYING YOUR LAWS, it doesn't take him long to think himself a God-created lawmaker and a perpetually appointed ruler.

Justice Brewer says to the people, "to restrict the restraining power of the courts is a step backward toward barbarism instead of a step forward to higher civilization."

Judge Brewer refers to the wide demand for limitation of the use of the power of injunction by the courts.

We beg to tell Judge Brewer that for the people to regulate the courts' enjoining power is NOT a return to barbarism, but A RETURN TO TRIAL BY JURY.

Unlimited power of injunction means ABSOLUTE POWER OF GOVERNMENT. If you have a Constitution that guarantees men the right of free speech, what becomes of that Constitution WHEN YOU ALLOW JUDGES TO ENJOIN MEN FROM FREE SPEECH?

Our Constitution gives men the right of free assembly. If the people take their Constitution seriously and do NOT look upon it as a joke, how can they tolerate the exercise by any petty Federal judge of power greater than that of the Constitution, THE POWER OF ENJOINING FREE ASSEMBLY?

Our judges as a rule, let us hope, are honorable men. We KNOW that a great many of them are honorable. And we know, unfortunately, as court records and jail records have proved, THAT SOME OF THEM ARE DISHONORABLE.

The Constitution is not dishonorable.

Is there any good reason for allowing that Constitution to be overridden and set aside by a man who may or may not be dishonorable, who very often is prejudiced, WHO CAN DEPRIVE ANY CITIZEN OF HIS RIGHT OF TRIAL BY JURY?

The rule in America, after all, Justice Brewer, is the will of the majority. You may think it better for a judge appointed by a President to contain in himself the lawmaking power. But the people think it better to keep that power for themselves. They would rather trust their fate to twelve jurymen than to some APPOINTED judge whom they never saw, and who very likely WAS NEVER SEEN BY THE PRESIDENT THAT APPOINTED HIM.

The people remember some injunction cases. They remember Noyes up in Alaska, and Mackenzie, his receiver, who went to jail and was forced to disgorge a hundred thousand dollars. They know that a very well-meaning, honest President, influenced by corporations, perhaps unconsciously, MAY PUT ON THE BENCH THE SHAMELESS TOOL OF THOSE CORPORATIONS.

Do you suppose, Justice Brewer, that the people want to run any such risk as to give that corporation tool absolute power over them, merely because he has the word "judge" in front of his name and the right to wear a silk robe?

Barbarism, Justice Brewer, looks like this:

A judge of some kind or other—call him Pharaoh, or Attila, or Genghis Khan, or Jeffreys—sits on a bench, clothed in the majesty of law.

He may wear a wig and a silk gown. He may wear a crown, or a bandit's hat.

People tremble before him. His decision is irrevocable. They can't argue, they can't appeal.

THAT IS BARBARISM, JUSTICE BREWER, and that is the kind of thing that would result very promptly if the people of this country were fools enough to allow each little judge, whom they pay to do their judicial work, TO BECOME A LAWMAKER AND, IF HE FELT LIKE IT, A LAWBREAKER answerable to nobody but himself. The people want to govern, and they WILL govern, more and more.

Corrects Mistakes of 12 Years

EDITOR BOSTON AMERICAN:

You have no doubt been troubled very badly by letters from people in this Commonwealth, and as you have become hardened to such, I trust you will pardon me for my first one. I have read with disgust of the doings at the Republican convention. We, as citizens of the United States, living and breathing God's free air, are awakened by the booming of the G. O. P. cannon and the echoes caused by the use of the big stick in the hands of leaders of that great party, and we look up with wonder at the grand old Stars and Stripes and ask, "What is to be the outcome of such doings?"

I have voted the Republican ticket for twelve years but I begin to see even at this late date that I have been mistaken, and as the recess bell is ringing from the school-room of truth I think I will answer and join the 1908 class and vote that ticket of Independence that will lead the people of this nation to a harbor of safety where we all can shake with safety the hand of our neighbor and fellow-countryman.

A great disaster awaits us as a nation under the present form of government at Washington. Citizens and voters, take warning from such doings as have just closed in Chicago and send to Washington as the leader of our nation a man that will rid us all from such conditions, so that the future generation will not be obliged to fight for peace and freedom as did our forefathers.

Now is the time to save our country and its people! LET'S DO IT.

No. 38-40 Middlesex street, Lowell, Mass. H. L. CLOUGH.

(To-morrow is the last day this year for changing your enrollment from one of the old parties to the Independence League. This applies in Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Gloucester, Medford, Lawrence, Lowell, Quincy, Somerville, Waltham, Newton, Groveland and Middleboro.

In Boston the Election Commissioners will hold special sessions to-night and to-morrow night to permit voters to change their enrollment. In the other cities and towns mentioned above enrollment can be changed by applying to the town or city clerk during regular office hours.)

Woman Is Her Own Fate

It Is in Her Power to Keep Away from Situations Which She Knows to Be Perilous

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal-Examiner

THE average woman is illogical. She cannot reason clearly.

"It is useless to say we can control our actions by will power," cries one of these illogical creatures. "We are victims of Fate."

Then she tells the story of a woman who was happily married and satisfied with her lot. The husband was kind and loyal and nothing seemed lacking in life.

Then one day he came. The woman looked into his eyes and her life became a tumult and torment from that moment.

"It was Fate; it had to be; will power could not prevent the disaster," she says.

And yet she tells how she planned to see this man; how she learned when he was to pass a certain street corner at a certain hour, and how she managed to be there "by chance"; and how the man, for a long time oblivious to her infatuation, finally became her lover.

It was like a fever and has burned itself away. She loves her husband with new devotion, and never sees the man.

"But it was Fate; it had to be," she reiterates. "Will could no more arrest it than it could arrest a fever."

Disproves Argument

YET her own words prove how illogical is the argument.

If an electrician touches a live wire and receives a shock he avoids the wire afterward. He does not say "it is Fate. I must be killed by that wire." He does not continually reach out his hand to try its power.

Certain men possess for certain women an influence much like that of the electric battery. It is purely physical. It can be controlled.

Fate has nothing whatever to do with the result of such an influence between two people. The will power guided by common sense and reason and a desire for right conduct, can control the infatuation.

It is in the power of every woman to keep away from situations which she knows to be perilous.

It is in the power of every man to do the same.

But men are not yet on a moral plane where we can look to them for sensible conduct in matters of the passions alone. Their own protection and the protection of the woman must come from her.

The Safe Course

HOWEVER much we may argue about the equality of the sexes and the one moral code for both men and women, the fact remains that the Creative Power made greater physical penalties for women for sex follies than He made for man; and her own self-protection, if not her moral obligation, demands that she lead man higher instead of tempting him to go lower.

No fascination is so all-controlling that it cannot be overcome by absence and separation and silence if taken in the beginning.

It is, indeed, oftimes like a fever but a fever taken in the first stages can be broken by proper diet and nursing.

The breaking up of this fever depends upon the woman and her will. But the majority of women who become susceptible to these fascinations of the senses are self-indulgent, romantic and weak; they want new experiences; they want the excitement of a dangerous association; and then they want to lay the blame on Fate.

Every woman is her own Fate. She can be what she wills to be; and the right path entails suffering and anguish, it surely does not lead to such misery and degradation as the wrong path.

What Do YOU Think About It?

(From the Northampton Herald)

HOW do you, man with a family to support, with work but part of the time, and barely enough, if employed all the time, to keep soul and body together—to say nothing about inability to look out for a rainy day—like the looks of things?

The State tax marked up from $4,000,000 last year to $5,500,000 and $5,000 at least in this city alone, and the price of beef going higher.

Wages have gone down, but nothing else has.

Less than four years ago the State tax was about $1,750,000—now it has trebled.

What do you think of it, or haven't you got enough brains to think, except as your party boss tells you?

This issue is going to be put up to you this Fall by an independent party, and you had better put on your thinking cap.

Do you propose to be one of those people who can be fooled by the old party politicians all the time?

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE!

RHYMO THE MONK GOES SWIMMING

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

ACCORDING TO THAT SIGN UP THERE I SPOSE I HADN'T OUGHTER, BUT I'M UNABLE TO RESIST THAT COOL INVITING WATER!
NO BATHING ON THIS BEACH! PRIVATE!! PROPERTY OF MR. GROUCHO.
WHAT RIGHT HAS GROUCHO TO FORBID HIS FELLOW HUMAN CREATURES TO USE THE OCEAN FOR TO BATHE THEIR BODIES AND THEIR FEATURES?
YE SHIPS THAT SAIL THE BOSOM OF THE MIGHTY BLUE ATLANTIC, IF GROUCHO SEES YOU OFF HIS SHORE THE SIGHT WILL DRIVE HIM FRANTIC!
YE WAVES THAT BEAT UPON THIS BEACH PRAY CEASE YOUR WILD COMMOTION! YE WINDS OF HEAVEN, HAVE A CARE! DON'T RUFFLE GROUCHO'S OCEAN!
IT MAKES ME WEEP TO THINK THAT IN THIS SEA ARE COUNTLESS FISHES A SWIMMING HEEDLESSLY ABOUT IN SPITE OF GROUCHO'S WISHES!
IF YOU WANT YOUR CLOTHES COME ALONG TO THE STATION HOUSE
OH, MISTER GROUCHO, GIVE ME BACK MY COAT AND VEST AND BRITCHES! THEY'RE WORTH FAR MORE JUST NOW TO ME THAN FAME OR UNTOLD RICHES!
